POLITICAL NOTES.

Of McClure, Curtin and Forney the Philadelphia Sunday Republic says: "As the advocacy of these men, orators and journalists, from Curtin down to the lowest and meanest recreant who betrayed his trust, injured Buckalew and everybody else they recommended for the public suffrage, so will their speeches and writings in favor of the re-election of President Grant injure him unless the men who have borne the brunt of the battle are authoratively assured that there will be no clasping of hands across 'the bloody chasm' which should forever separate the loyal men of the Republican party from the disloyal. With our legitimate opponents 'let us seem humbler after it is done than when it was a doing,' but to those who played the part of guerrillas let the retributive justice be meted which should always be the reward of political treason."

The Sharon Times, Greeley Democrat, says: "We expected to put at the head of each column on this page, this week, a magnificent game rooster, procured for the occasion, but owing to scarcity of space and the peculiar complexion of the news received up to the hour of going to press, we forbear."

The Knoxville, Tenn., Chronicle says: "We believe it was Mark Tapley who always strove to be 'jolly under creditable circumstances.' We think the editors of the Greeley organs who are now figuring up a chance for Greeley's election next November are veritable Mark Tapley's, and their efforts ought to be respected."

Grant has issued a proclamation recommending all his "subjects" to be thankful. As one of 'em, we'd be a good deal more thankful if the nation had less of Grant.—Titusville Courier. Go to Canada, young man.

THE Augusta Constitutionalist gives a rumor current in some portions of Georgia in this way: "It is said that Hon. Alexander H. Stephens is about to yield to solicitations pressed upon him from different parts of the Eighth Congressional district, to become a candidate for Congress. It is further said that Hon. Phillip Clayton, Radical nominee, is willing to retire for his benefit. We do not know on what the rumor is based. So many strange things happen in politics that nothing seems too improbable for belief." The Atlanta Constitution alludes to the same report, and says: "If Mr. Stephens can conciliate the Radicals in Congress as successfully as it seems he is conciliating the Radicals in the Eighth district, he might be a power in the State again. But can be conciliate the Democrats of the Eighth? That's the question."

The "Jeffersonian Democracy" of Georgia have nominated an Electoral ticket in favor of O'Conor and Adams, and have issued an address, in which they say: "Regarding the action of the Baltimore Convention as the most stupendous blunder ever made in politics, we felt bound to oppose it. The result has justified our worst fears. The most sanguine adherent of Mr. Greeley cannot now hope for success. The movement has had a fair trial and has signally failed. What then is left for us? Let us learn a lesson of wisdom from defeat, reorganize the shattered columns of Democracy under our own banner and our leaders, and save our principles if we cannot achieve victory."

Schurz says "we have lost the battle." According to history this is but a continuation of his habit while in the army.

A curious specter, supposed to be the Sage of Chappaqua going West to buy a farm, was seen to pass East Saginaw on the day after the Pennsylvanian election. The Enterprise gives this account of it: "A heavy body of mist, which looked to be a few rods square, and reaching from the clouds to the earth in a diagonal line, passed just to the south of the city yesterday afternoon. It attracted considerable attention, and caused many remarks of wonderment."

The Colored Greeley Club of Toledo, O., never a very robust organization, and kept alive by the administration of large and frequent doses of "free whisky," has given up the ghost. Greeley's strength among the colored men of Toledo is on a par with it in Allegheny county, where it is probable he will not receive the vote of one of the race.

The ex-Republicans who united their fortunes with the Democracy, and advocated Buckalew's election, can appreciate the full import of the following lamentation of one of Shakespeare's prominent characters:

> I have abandoned Troy, left my possessions,
> Incurr'd a traitor's name; exposed myself,
> From certain and possessed conveniences,
> To doubtful fortunes; sequest'ring from me all
> That time, acquaintance, custom and condition
> Made tame and most familiar to my nature.

The Philadelphia Republic suggests that the three months that will intervene between the present and the time of the convening of the Legislature will give ample opportunity to our Republican law-makers to search the statutes and definitely ascertain whether the Senator who now misrepresents the Fourth district cannot be legally compelled to resign to private life. Last winter Mr. Dechert was in great trepidation lest his case should be reopened and justice be done to the people of the First district, and we call upon the gentlemen who have been elected Senators by Republican voters to have the McClure-Gray matter investigated, and, if possible, reopened, in order that the Republicans of our city and State may no longer be disgraced. It cost $26,000 for Buckalew to put the model reformer in the Senate; it needn't cost $26 to put him out, if the law permits such a blessing.

The Springfield, Mass., Republican, Liberal organ, says: "Augustus Schell, chairman of the National Democratic Committee, still says that Mr. Greeley will be the next President. But General Banks beats him in the confidence game by saying that Greeley will carry both Pennsylvania and Ohio in November."

According to a report recently made to the British Association, "Palm trees grow luxuriantly toward the northern extremity of the Dead Sea." It is from those that palm branches will be taken for the use of Mr. Greeley and his friends, who are partial to Dead Sea productions. They are better known as cypress, the tree of the dead—and buried.

As King Lear, raving about "Press-money," "crow-keepers," and "scurvey politicians," Horace Greeley is a success. After the pelting storm of November he will resemble him in taking up the sad plaint:

"When the rain came to wet me once, and the wind to make me chatter; when the thunder would not peal at my bidding, then I found them, then I smelt them out. Go to, they are not men of their words; they told me I was everything; 'tis a lie. They flattered me like dogs, the villains!"

The Baltimore bridge company has recently completed in the Andes of Peru a bridge over a frightful chasm. The Democracy should employ them to bridge the "bloody chasm" between that party and success.

The New York World says: "To be sure there is left but a slender chance of Mr. Greeley's election," but it goes on to urge the Democrats and Liberals to grin and bear their ills, by making a final struggle with the hope that "a new leaf in the chapter of accidents" may turn in their favor. This is very dismal encouragement.

The Indianapolis Journal says: "The majority for Hartranft in Pennsylvania, with twelve counties yet to hear from but estimated, is 35,726. The Liberals will hardly have check enough to assert that Simon wibble-wabbled that many illegal voters into the State. As Pennsylvania goes so goes the Union."

Leslie Combs, the playmate of Methusaleh and last survivor of the party engaged in a famous architectural enterprise at Babel, is out for Greeley.

A New York paper urges the nomination of C. A. Dana for Mayor of that city. Now let some one else nominate Reddy the Blacksmith and the Hon. William Forrester.

The scientific man of the Boston Advertiser has been investigating the tidal wave business, and here is his report: "The principal 'waves' in politics which have been observed this season have proceeded from political flags. They are tied all."

The Indianapolis Journal calls the correspondent of the New York Tribune, located in that city during the campaign, a "modern Ananias and first premium idiot."

From present indications Greeley will never be in a position to sign a law compelling our coal dealers to ship the products of their mines to Lake Superior and take pig iron in exchange.

Democrats have been continously shocked and startled by the political events of this year, by the surrender of their party's principles, by the adoption of so objectionable a person as Horace Greeley as its candidate, and finally by the overthrow of the whole combination just at the time when they had made up their minds that it was going to win. They begin to feel like the Irishman, who went, for the first time, to a play. Just as the drop curtain descended, after the first act, an engine in the basement exploded, and the Celt was blown through the roof, alighting in the next square. His first remark after coming to his senses was: "And what the divil will they play next?"

THE Cincinnati Commercial of Monday says: "The October elections must be accepted as indications of the re-election of President Grant. All the world sees this, and denials are vain. Here and there drill sergeants flourish their truncheons apparently with but little effect, and proclamations are issued as redolent of the unconquerable will as that of Jules Favre when he declared that France would not give up a foot of soil or a stone on the walls of a fortress. It is our preference to accept the facts as they come and state things as they are."

The action taken at Baltimore practicall dissolved the old Democratic party and threw a large amount of purchasable voting material upon the market. The Republican party, being blessed with a heavy purse, * * * has bought right and left, at liberal rates.—Springfield (Mass.) Republican.

If that is your opinion of Democrats, little can be said in compliment to your sound judgment in making a coalition with such "commercial" material. Your present opinion of the Democratic masses coincides with Greeley's opinion of a year ago.—Cleveland Herald.

The editor of the Pottsville Standard relieves his surcharged heart in the following plaint. Such grief as this is almost too sacred to be exposed to the gaze of an unsympathetic public: "The result of the election on Tuesday will stand forever a disgrace, a stain and are proach upon the fair fame of the Commonwealth. The degradation of Pennsylvania is complete. The plunderers of the people's substance, the Treasury thieves, vile creatures of Simon Cameron, the king of fraud and high priest of corruption, again have prostituted the State and corrupted the people. With the brazen turpitude of the debauched courtesan, men claiming to be respectable, intelligent and above bribery, have accepted the price of shame and aided to defeat the best, the purest and the ablest statesman within the limits of the Commonwealth, if not of the whole Union, Charles R. Buckalew. Let honest men wear sack-cloth and tremble, while pimps, thieves and jail-birds in general howl in devilish glee over the fraudulent election of the hangman of Mrs. Surratt, John F. Hartranft, the spotted corruptionist and speculator in the money of the people." Won't somebody put a wet towel around that young man's head? His "lamentation" is a trifle ahead of that of Jeremiah.

The "Straight-out" paper in Philadelphia, the New World, says: "The travels of Galliver amuse our children. The travels of Greeley distress his friends. We don't know that there is much similarity in the travels of those worthies, except that both deal in marvels. Gulliver's travels astonish the world—and so do Greeley's. Every speech he makes is a blunder. Every discharge of his eloquence recoils with deadly effect upon himself. He is a perfect harlequin in his performances. One day he appears as a Secessionist; the next day a Unionist of the most orthodox order. Anon, he is a bullionist—bent on specie payments if he breaks the nation. Then he is for resuming in a philosophic way—so as to hurt nobody. Crowds rush to see him exhibit himself as the Lilliputians swarmed to see Gulliver. As the Lilliputians pinned Gulliver to the ground—so the people will in November pin Mr. Greeley to the dead level where he belongs."

Greeley's troubles, it seems, are not destined to end with the overwhelming defeat which he is certain to encounter on the 5th prox. A gentleman who has lately arrived in Washington from Ohio and Indiana, says that the belief is very current among leading Republicans that a remarkable change in the course of the New York Tribune may soon be looked for, if not before the Presidential election, then immediately afterward. One of these reports, based upon the statement of a gentleman who conversed with a Tribune manager less than two weeks ago, is that upon Greeley's defeat they will instantly change front, throw Greeley and Reid overboard and tender the management of the Tribune to Hon. Schuyler Colfax, for the purpose of saving the influence of their weekly paper, the subscriptions to which mostly expire within the next four months, and three-fourths of which they will certainly lose, unless some change like this is made. Mr. Greeley is known to contemplate retiring from journalism, whether elected or not; and upon being condoled with by a friend upon the result of Tuesday's elections, is said to have remarked that it would give him the long sought for opportunity of completing his literary labors.

The Newark, New Jersey, Daily Advertiser makes this reference to Mr. Greeley's visit to Baltimore and his beatific address to his Democratic friends: "Mr. Greeley delivered the address before the Maryland State Fair yesterday and subsequently made a short reconciliation speech to an immense crowd, in which he said 'Blessed are the peace-makers'—a very appropriate thing to say to the fellows before him, who, while on their march to serenade him, had killed two Republicans and chopped a policeman's head off with one of the typical Greeley axes. The bloody chasm gapes occasionally and clasping hands don't seem to close it. The Baltimore 'Blood-Tub' still lives."

Says the Cleveland Herald: "There have been no additions to Hartranft's majority in Pennsylvania for the past few hours, and neither of the four Congressmen left to the Democrats has been unseated by later returns. We rejoice on historical grounds, for some evidence should be left that such a party as the Democratic existed in the Keystone State."

THE VAN SYCKEL POISONING.

Repeated Attempts to Murder a Wealthy Lady—What the Cook Saw Mr. Van Syckel Doing—The Relations Between Husband and Wife.

Mrs. Van Syckel, who was poisoned by arsenic administered in a cup of tea on Thursday evening last, died at her residence, corner of Love lane and Henry street, Brooklyn, Saturday night, from the effects of the poison she had taken.

The deceased was married to John Van Syckel when she was eighteen years of age, and their married life has extended through a period of twenty-two years. There are two daughters living, Mary Ellen, a beautiful girl, aged eighteen years, and a child five years old, called by the pet name "Maimie." Van Syckel is a rough, worthless character, of intemperate habits, and has consorted a great deal with improper characters. During the past fifteen years Mrs. Van Syckel has supported the family by speculating in furniture. She is well known in portions of Brooklyn where she dealt as a woman of considerable ability. Her husband has for years lived upon his wife's earnings, and has squandered several thousand dollars of money in dissipation and profligacy. About six months ago she gave him $500 to commence business with, and he opened a butcher's shop at the corner of Doughty and Columbia streets, but his place soon became a resort for his low companions, thieves and gamblers. Shortly before her death, Mrs. Van Syckel determined to get a divorce from him. She has some property in her own name—their dwelling at the corner of Love lane and Henry streets, and a small house on Willow street, Brooklyn Heights. These she bought with her own savings.

A week ago last Saturday she went to Flatbush, returning home in the evening, and after partaking of some refreshment was suddenly taken ill, with symptoms exactly similar to those she exhibited on Thursday evening last. She seemed to be recovering from this attack, when, on Monday following, Van Syckel sent home from his shop a piece of pork to be roasted for dinner. The cook, a woman named Johanna, who has been in the employ of the family about six years, washed the meat thoroughly before roasting, and it was served up for dinner. Every member of the family who ate of the pork was, immediately after dinner, seized with cramps, vomiting and febrile symptoms, similar to the effects of poisoning by arsenic. Mr. Van Syckel attributed the sickness simply to a mistake by the cook, who he supposed had probably put soda in the potatoes instead of salt.

On Thursday last Mrs. Van Syckel and her eldest daughter, Mary Ellen, visited A. T. Stewart's store in New York to make some purchases, and being out until late in the afternoon, took dinner at a restaurant on Broadway. They returned home in the evening. It has been Mrs. Van Syckel's custom for several years to have a cup of tea about noon. The cook had made a pitcher of tea that day as usual, and set it on the stove to await the arrival of her mistress. I stood there all the afternoon. The cook says that no person at all came into the house in the meantime except Van Syckel, and she saw him "fussing around the pitcher of tea."

When Mrs. Van Syckel came home in the evening, she (the cook) took the pitcher of tea into her room, and she drank a tea-cup half full of it. The particulars of her sickness, and the discovery of arsenic in the tea by chemical analysis, have already been published. When she found she was dying, Mrs. Van Syckel sent for her lawyer and made her will, bequeathing all her property to her two daughters, leaving Van Syckel without a penny. Coroner Whitehill will commence his investigation this morning.

MURDERS IN PENNSYLAANIA.

A Baggage Agent Murdered by Robbers at Lock Haven—A Young Man Killed at Jersey Shore.

A frightful murder was committed at Lock Haven on Sunday night. On Monday morning H. H. Fitch, baggage agent at the Lock Haven depot, was found in the baggage room lifeless and covered with blood, and by his side lay the instrument of death, a hatchet. It is thought the deed was committed by some one who had secreted himself in the room for the purpose of robbing the express baggage. The murder has created a great sensation in Lock Haven.

On Saturday evening, in Jersey Shore, Lycoming county, J. B. Smith, a young man held in high esteem in the community, was called upon by a constable to assist in arresting a party of riotous ruffians. He stepped up to assist the officer, when he was stabbed in the breast and instantly killed, dying without uttering a word. Three of the outlaws, Miles G. Cole, John Ferguson and Barney Barnfield were arrested and committed to jail to await trial.

Sad Result of Matrimonial Disturbance.

Special Dispatch to the Commercial.

URBANA, OHIO, October 15, 1872.

A sad termination of matrimonial infelicity has developed itself at Woodstock, this county. Oliver Colwell, a farmer living near that place, has for some time lived very unhappily with his wife in consequence of which they have parted several times, the last time on Thursday. Mr. Colwell went to Woodstock and endeavored to get his wife to return home. She refused, but said she would come for her clothes. He left her, remarking that she would not find him there. He then procured opium at one of the drug stores and took a quantity sufficient to throw him into a state of unconsciousness, and caused death on Sunday morning. Deceased was almost thirty-eight years of age, and was a man that was thought well of in the community. He leaves two children.

Astonishing Act of Mexican Justice.

MATAMORAS, MEXICO, October 15.—Yesterday the local and military authorities at Brownsville, Texas, applied, through the United States consul, to General Rocha to arrest some thieves, who had crossed the Rio Grande with about eighty head of cattle within sight of this city, and return the stolen cattle to Texas, and surrender the criminals for trial. General Rocha at once detached a squad of cavalry, who, with the Texas police officers, captured the thieves and some of the animals, which were returned across the river to-day by General Rocha, who also notified the Texas authorities that the thieves would be surrendered on proper demand. This is the first case of the kind which has occurred since General Rocha came here, and the satisfactory result is regarded with pleasure by all desiring peace on this border.

Convention of Irish Catholic Benevolent Societies.

PHILADELPHIA, October 15.—The fourth annual Convention of the Irish Catholic Benevolent Union will be commenced in this city to-morrow. The organization is simply a union of the various benevolent societies in the United States having Catholic membership. About one hundred and fifty delegates will be present, eighteen of whom will represent societies in this city. The officers of the Union are Dennis Dwyer, of Dayton, Ohio, President; Martin J. J. Griffin, of Philadelphia, Secretary; Rev. Joseph Henry, of St. Louis, Treasurer.

Meeting of Masonic Grand Lodge of Ohio.

COLUMBUS, October 15.—The Masonic Grand Lodge of Ohio assembled here to-day, and after being opened in the Master Mason degree, addresses were made by Grand Master Newcomb and Deputy Grand Master Battin. After the conclusion of addresses, committees were appointed, and an adjournment had until ten o'clock to-morrow morning, in order to give committees time to make out reports. There is a very large attendance of delegates.

West Virginia State Fair.

Special Dispatch to the Commercial.

CHARLESTON, W. VA., October 15, 1872.

The State agricultural fair opened to-day with a large number of people and a large list of entries. A race of three year olds took place to-day, resulting in favor of Heroine, Charles Beals's mare. The fair is a success beyond the expectation of everybody. Charleston is crowded. To-morrow will be the big day, when a lively time among horsemen is expected.

The Recent Assassination at Dorchester, Mass.

BOSTON, October 15.—The inquest on the body of Charles Lane, murdered at Dorchester, was begun this morning. No information has yet been obtained to sustain any of the theories as to the motive of the crime, and nothing has been discovered concerning the identity of the murderer.

BUFFALO, October 15.—Mrs. Chaplan and Mrs. Chasselette, widows of the engineer and fireman who were killed on the Erie road by the negligence of a train dispatcher in telegraphing, have recovered damages of over five thousand dollars each against the Erie Railway.

WASHINGTON.

ROWDYISM AT ANNAPOLIS.

Colored Naval Cadet Assaulted.

Preparing Business for Congress.

The Internal Revenue Receipts

Largely Exceed the Estimates

Probable Further Reduction of Taxes.

Special Dispatch to the Commercial.

WASHINGTON, D. C., October 15, 1872.

Insubordination at the Naval Academy.

The Navy Department will take prompt measures to suppress the spirit of rowdyism which is manifesting itself at the Naval School toward the colored cadet Congers. The outrage against discipline was the grossest that has ever occurred either at West Point or Annapolis, as the ranks were broken to assault Congers. The hazing of last winter, which called out several orders of expulsion from Secretary Robeson, was done at night and while the cadets were off duty. In the present case, if the assailants of Congers can be ascertained, they will be summarily dismissed.

Work of Congress Beginning.

Gen. Garfield is expected here to-morrow. As chairman of the Committee on Appropriations he will begin the work contemplated by the House resolution, authorizing the Committee to meet the first Monday in October. The Senate Committee will assemble immediately after the November election. The object is to expedite the collection of all estimates and information needed from the departments to enable the Committee to present its bills at a much earlier period of the session than usual. It is also proposed to present to the House a plan by which a much larger proportion of the annual appropriations shall be passed upon by Congress. Of about three hundred millions expended only about one-third comes under the revision of Congress, since there are about thirty classes of permanent appropriations provided for by statute, independent of appropriation bills, and it is proposed to repeal such of these laws as due regard for public business will allow.

Internal Revenue.

The receipts of internal revenue to the middle of the month continue to exceed the estimates, and have been at the rate of one hundred and twenty millions annually. Where the estimate was for one hundred millions to the 30th September, the excess had been at the rate of forty millions. It is now believed that at the coming session the tax on bank checks, matches, cosmetics and patent medicines can be removed.

A Greeley Paper Expires.

The Philadelphia Post, bought up by the Greeleyites at the opening of the campaign, has just suspended.

The Fisheries Question.

It is understood that the President will urge upon Congress, at the coming session, the prompt passage of legislation to carry into effect the fishery clauses of the Treaty of Washington. At the last session the House Committee was almost unanimously against taking action. The Parliament of the Dominion had voted upon the matter. It will be urged, however, now that since the settlement of the chief question in dispute in our favor, it will hardly be proper for Congress to further delay decision in regard to the clauses of the treaty which have not yet taken effect.

WASHINGTON, D. C., October 15, 1872.

ACTION ON CLAIMS SUSPENDED.

Secretary Boutwell has addressed the following letter to the Third Auditor of the Treasury:

SIR—You are requested to suspend action upon claims for stores and supplies, furnished ostensibly for the use of the army, in all cases where required returns have not been made by the receipting officer. This course is made necessary by the fact that ex-officers of the army have in some instances given their official certificates and receipts for forage and other supplies, dating them years before the term when they were actually made, in order to bring them within the scope of their official authority, thus leaving an open door for collusion and fraud in the absence of so important a guard as official returns,

[Signed] GEORGE S. BOUTWELL.

PLAIN TALK WITH INDIANS.

An interview took place to-day at the Interior Department between General F. A. Walker, Commissioner of Indian Affairs, and a large party of Indians, representing Kiowas, Comanches, Apaches and other wild tribes of the western part of Indian Territory, who have so long made Kansas, Texas and eastern New Mexico their raiding ground. The Commissioner, after advising them to cultivate the soil, raise stock, send their children to school, &c., told them plainly that the government had determined to put an end once for all to the murder and stealing which have of late become so common, and that Indians inclined to be unfriendly and insubordinate would be dealt with summarily. Finally the Indians were informed that besides this general address the business with each tribe would be taken up in detail separately, day after day, until completed.

CUBAN NEWS.

Balancing the Budget—Tax on Slaves—Conspiracy Discovered and Conspirators Shot.

HAVANA, October 14.—The difference between the receipts and expenditures of the island is thirteen millions five hundred thousand dollars. The Council of Administration, under the Presidency of the Intendente, has resolved to balance the budget without increasing the import or export duties, and meet the whole deficiency by local taxation. The principal item of new taxation will be the imposition of twenty-four dollars on each slave, which will produce about seven million dollars.

The Havana journals report the discovery of a conspiracy in the Guisa district, near Bayamo, saying that the Cubans intended to rise and capture and kill those favoring the Spanish cause, and burn their establishments. The Spanish General Menduina had eight conspirators shot, and others condemned to imprisonment for life. Fifty of the Cubans are awaiting trial.

Lac la Belle Disaster.

MILWAUKEE, October 15.—Those known to be lost by the Lac la Belle disaster are R. H. Lippincott, traveling agent for Demon & Co., of Milwaukee; S. W. Yener, also a traveling agent, of this city, and W. S. Smith, of Watertown, Wisconsin. Those who perished were afraid to trust to the small boats, and preferred to stand their chances with the wreck.

Frost in Georgia.

AUGUSTA, GA., October 15.—Frost last night killed vegetation. The weather is excellent for cotton picking.

EAST BIRMINGHAM COUNCIL.

Special Meeting Last Evening.

East Birmingham Council held a special meeting last evening. Members present: Messrs. Kemler, Eitemiller, Brown, Fisher, Fox, Haberman, Ihmsen and Burgess Dressel in the chair.

The Burgess stated that the meeting had been called for the purpose of taking some action in regard to the assessments on sewers.

The Borough Regulator was in favor of the Allegheny plan which fixed the assessment at $2 50 per foot lineal.

Mr. Eitemiller thought that assessment was too high.

On motion, the Allegheny plan was adopted by a vote of six to two. The Ordinance Committee was then instructed to draw up an ordinance on the Allegheny plan and present the same at the next meeting of Council.

A warrant was ordered to be drawn for $858 16 in favor of Dennis & Driscoll.

A communication was received from the Walton Hose Company, asking privilege of participating in the procession to take place to-morrow evening. Granted.

After transacting some business of no public importance, council adjourned.

PUBLIC AMUSEMENTS.

Pittsburgh Opera House.

Miss Lillie Eldridge appeared as Mignon for the second time last evening, to a fair assemblage. The young lady gained considerably upon the affections of a Pittsburgh audience, and was liberally applauded throughout. This evening a new play entitled "Olive" will be produced, with Miss Eldridge in the title role.

There is at present in rehearsal a new play written expressly for Miss Eldridge, entitled "Alma, or Held in Bondage." A New York authority, in speaking of the play, says: "Miss Lillie Eldridge, an ambitious young actress, has produced in Mrs. Conway's theater in Brooklyn, a dramatization of 'Ouida's' popular novel, entitled, "Granville de Vigne; or Held in Bondage." The dramatization has been named "Alma." Alma Tressillian is one of the purest and most charming of Miss Delarama's (Ouida) sketches of female character, and in Miss Lillie Eldridge has found an exponent who possesses several advantages of heart and person. Some actresses naturally give the impression of innocence and refinement. Miss Eldridge is one of these; but it is not often that a role so imperatively necessitating the presence of these qualities is demanded of an actress.

Academy of Music.

There was, if possible, a larger audience present at the Academy last night than upon the occasion of the first performance of "Flick and Flock." From first to last the pantomime was greeted with rounds of applause. The Clown and Pantaloon of Messrs. Maffitt and Bartholomew drew forth the most deafening roars of laughter, while the astonishing feats of Mr. Nelson and his two pretty little sons perfectly entranced the audience. This evening "Flick and Flock," with its host of novelties will be given for the third time.

Mr. Maffitt's benefit on Friday evening and grand farewell matinee on Saturday afternoon, when every parent and guardian should have the children present.

Alms's American Theater.

At no time during the season has there been a more attractive and popular variety troupe than at present performing at this theater. Mr. Pastor has on his nightly appearance at the American, created a most excellent impression by his comic singing, while Miss Sallie Mason, is a songstress or the most attractive order. These first class variety stars appear to-night again, in addition to a large list of first class novelty stars performing at the matinee this afternoon. The matinees at this theater are decidedly popular, and the ladies and children will no doubt avail themselves of the pleasure of attending as usual this Wednesday afternoon. A good bill to-night.

Trimbles Varieties Theater.

The new artists at this house are giving great satisfaction to the patrons. Millie Tournour, Peter Cannon, Harry Causland, Charley Brown, Adele Jordan, Minnie Gray, Mdlle. de Granville and old Dan Gardner appear in an enjoyable entertainment to-night.

RAILWAY MATTERS.

Another Victory for the Pennsylvania Company.

The Pennsylvania Railway Company has gained an important advantage over the new opposition National (Stanhope) Company in New Jersey, by an injunction from Chancellor Zabriskie ordering the officers of the latter company to show cause why they should not be restrained from constructing the proposed line through New Jersey. The Pennsylvania Company has another similar suit pending in the Pennsylvania courts, and is evidently determined to interpose all possible legal obstacles against the opposition line, at least until a new legislature meets in New Jersey, when an attempt will be made to repeal the Stanhope charter.

Wants to Back Out.

The combination made by the New Jersey Central Company with the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western seems to have become distasteful to it already. The Central insisted on making its usual quarterly dividend of two and a half per cent., though the joint committee which was to manage the affairs of both companies, refused to authorize it. Then Mr. Moses Taylor, a director in both companies, protested against the Central's action, and resigned his position in its board. The Delaware, Lackawanna and Western sued for an injunction to restrain the payment of this dividend, on the ground first that it had not been earned, and second that the joint committee did not authorize it. The Central's defense was that the arrangement with the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western is invalid, because a copy of it was not filed with the Secretary of State of New Jersey within thirty days after it was made. The Vice Chancellor of New Jersey, before whom the case was brought, declined to issue the injunction, and the case will now be carried to the Court of Appeals.

Chesapeake and Ohio.

The Richmond (Va.) Dispatch says that the track is now laid thirty-five miles west of the White Sulphur Springs and two hundred and sixty-two miles from Richmond. Work on the section of seventy miles from that point to Gauley, the present terminus of the western division, is being pushed forward rapidly. There are two tunnels not quite completed and some heavy rock cutting, on which an extra force has been placed. The work has been somewhat retarded by slides caused by heavy rains, but it is hoped that trains will be running through to the Ohio river this year. On the western division, one hundred miles, from Huntington, to Gauley, is completed and in operation.

Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne and Chicago.

In the Fort Wayne shops this company is building six new freight cars daily, keeps two passenger coaches under way and keeps up the repairs. The machine shops, it is expected, will turn out fifteen new locomotives this year besides keeping up the repairs. On the 1st of September there were shipped from these shops two entirely new locomotives with 16x24 inch cylinders and steel boilers for the Texas and Pacific Railroad. All the engines built in these shops now have steel boilers, and there are fifteen such now in service on the road and all doing well.

Toronto, Grey and Bruce Narrow-gauge, Canada.

The half-yearly report of this Canada company has just been published. The road, which is of three feet six inch gauge, extends from Toronto west to Mount Forest, a distance of eighty-eight miles, and an extension from Mount Forest to Teeswater, thirty-eight miles, and a branch from Orangeville to Owen Sound, on Georgian Bay, sixty-eight miles, are now under construction. The receipts from traffic during the half-year ending June 30 were $64,312 46; and the expenditures, other than for new construction, were $44,649 35, or sixty nine per cent. of the gross earnings, making the net earnings $19,663 13. That portion of the road from Mount Forest to Orangeville has been under construction the whole time, and trains have been run on it only for the accommodation of the public, but the expenses and earnings have been included in the general statement. The net earnings are sufficient to pay the interest on the entire issue of bonds from Toronto to Orangeville, and more than half the issue from Orangeville to Mount Forest. The whole amount expended in construction up to June 30, 1872, was $1,804,323 63. A contract has been made for the construction of the first section of the Gray extension, from Mount Forest to Wroxeter, twenty-two miles. The whole amount of iron for the Gray extension, some 5,000 tons in all, was secured before the late rise in iron, thus saving a large amount to the company. The townships on this extension have all voted bonuses to the road, and the government of Ontario has granted $76,000, or $2,000 per mile for the work. This grant the company hope to have increased to $3,000 per mile, in consideration of the rough nature of the country. The government has also granted $230,000 to be applied to that part of the road from Orangeville to Harriston. The directors had hoped to have the line to Owen Sound ready for traffic in January next, but will be unable to do so, owing to the delay in obtaining locomotives from England.

Carolina Narrow Guage.

The Carolina Narrow Guage Railroad is designed to run from Chester to York, in South Carolina, and from thence in a direct line to Lenoir, North Carolina, passing through the towns of Dallas, Lincoln and Newton, North Carolina, a distance of about one hundred miles. The road is to be a narrow guage road, and the cost of its building and equipment will be about $7,000 per mile. The capital stock is $700,000, $200,000 of which is to be raised by private subscription, the remainder being pledged by the counties through which the route lies. The country through which it passes is a very rich grain bearing section, the product of which goes now by way of Charlotte, North Carolina, to Baltimore. The President, Dr. Davega, avers that corn which is now sold in that section for forty cents per bushel, costs about twenty-four cents transportation to Baltimore, and from Baltimore as much more. He contends that by the completion of the new road, it can be brought direct to Charleston at a cost of about fifteen cents, a very material reduction in the price. The cost of the construction of the road, being so much less than that of the ordinary broad guage road, will enable the new road to transport freight at proportionately lower rates, and by this means, it is thought, that a large and valuable trade will be diverted to Charleston.

Pennsylvania Petroleum Road.

We learn from the Erie Dispatch that the contract for the completion of the Pennsylvania Petroleum Railway from Cambridge to Erie was let on Thursday last. Work is to begin at once, but will not be prosecuted very vigorously until the iron is laid on the section between Cambridge and Titusville, which will be accomplished in a few weeks, as the grading, bridging, construction of culverts and laying of ties is about concluded. When that portion of the line is ready for the rolling stock, the large force now engaged upon it will be transferred to the northern section and the enterprise rapidly pushed to completion. The contract calls for its completion by the opening of navigation next spring. It is expected by the managers that the road will do a large business in the transportation of coal and petroleum to Erie for shipment and in carrying return freights for the supply of the oil and coal regions.

An Important Road Nearly Completed

The opening of "all-rail" connections to Halifax, with Pullman through cars, will be an important event. Last year, the European and North American Railway was opened to travel between Bangor and St. John. The missing link between St. John and Halifax—a section from Amherst to Truro, in Nova Scotia—will be finished the present month, and trains will commence running regularly immediately thereafter. Passengers will then be ticketed and baggage checked through from Boston to Halifax, "all-rail," with river ferriage at St. John, N. B. Passengers from Europe can, by taking the cars at Halifax, reach New York some seventy hours sooner than they can by remaining on the steamer, and save 700 miles and two or three days of ocean travel. In short, it reduces the time between London and New York to six or seven days.

Miscellaneous.

—The track on the Saginaw Valley and St. Louis Railroad is laid to Hemlock City, Michigan, and workmen are pushing the work with great energy.

—A projected railroad line, from Grand Haven to East Saginaw, passes through the counties of Ottawa, Muskegon, Montcalm, Gratiot and Saginaw, Michigan.

—Track laying on the Iona Stanton and Northern Railroad, of Michigan, has commenced at the Grand Rapids Junction, nearly a mile and a half being already laid.

—The St. Crox Republican says work on the Wisconsin Central Railroad will be continued all winter, and that cars will be running to Penoka by the middle of January.

—The contract for building the forty-eight miles of the Flint and Pere Marquette Railroad yet remaining between Reed City and the shore of Lake Michigan, at Ludington, have been let.

—Sixty men are now at work on the Mansfield and Lake Michigan Railroad, and the road is being completed at the rate of a mile per day. Cars will be running to Tiffany, Michigan, by November 1.

—Track laying on the Chicago, Dubuque and Minnesota railroad has been resumed, and will be pushed rapidly to La Crescent, Wis., where it will form a junction with the Milwaukee and St. Paul road.

—Work on all the branch lines of the Northern Pacific railroad has been suspended for lack of funds, and all the laborers discharged. The branches include the lines to St. Vincent, Brainardand Pembina.

—The track of the Chicago and St. Paul road is already laid to Elroy, Minn., leaving about twenty-four miles of iron to be laid to complete an almost air-line railway from St. Paul to Chicago,—the greatest deviation being the eighteen miles from St. Paul to Hudson.

—The Davenport and St. Paul Railroad Company have, it is stated, procured iron enough to complete their road to the State line, and are now laying track at the rate of three-fourths of a mile per day. They expect to complete the road to Rochester, Minn., some time in October, 1873.

—A movement is on foot to construct a railroad from Baltimore to Philadelphia, and meetings have been held in Baltimore county recently to take into consideration the merits of two routes proposed, one called the Belair route, and the other the Peachbottom route, which it was contended would pay better than the first, and would tap the Hanover Railroad, which will soon be completed to the Broad Top coal fields of Pennsylvania.

SAYS the Boston Traveller: "Pittsburgh responds to Horace Greeley's denunciation of the veterans of the late war, by an unexpectedly large majority for the gallant soldier, Gen. Hartranft, and the Sage's professions of love for that city were treated with scorn."

Partnership Difficulty.

A bill in equity was filed in the Common Pleas, yesterday, at the instance of Richard Straw, of the late firm of Straw & Morton, agents for the Singer Sewing Machines, asking that Howard Morton, late partner of complainant, be enjoined from negotiating or collecting any bills, notes or other indebtedness belonging to the firm, and that he also be restrained from interfering with Harry A. Stout in the settlement of the firm business. A preliminary injunction was granted, conditioned that bail be given by the complainant, to be approved by the court. A further hearing in the case will be had on Saturday next. The suit grows out of a partnership difficulty.

Seriously Injured.

Yesterday afternoon, about three o'clock, a man named Michael McGovern was very badly burned at the steel works of Anderson & Woods, corner Try and Second streets, by the explosion of one of crucibles which are used for the purpose of melting steel. His clothing was set on fire, and it was with considerable difficulty that the flames were extinguished. It was found that his left side and leg were burned in a horrible manner. He was removed to his home on Second avenue, above Try street, and a physician summoned, who attended his injuries.

Charged with Forgery.

Yesterday morning Peter J. Connolly, of the firm of Wm. J. McCleary & Co., of New York, publishers of the "Western Business Directory," appeared before Alderman McMasters, and accused Frank H. Maynard of forgery. The defendant, it is alleged, was agent for the Directory in this vicinity, and is charged with sending in notes to the publisher purporting to be signed by merchants and others for advertisements, for sundry amounts, the signatures to which were forgeries. A warrant for the arrest of the accused was issued. Maynard may have another side to the story.

At a special meeting of the Fisher Barge Club this evening, the following preamble and resolutions were unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, during our recent visit to the regatta of the "Ohio River Regatta Association," at Cincinnati, as guests of the "Pape Barge Club," the hospitable manner in which we were entertained; the kindness which characterized their every action toward us, and the honorable and impartial manner in which the managers of the association conducted the races and rendered their decisions, have won from us and entitle them to our highest respect and most grateful remembrance; therefore be it

Resolved, 1st. That we tender our sincere thanks to the officers and managers of the O. R. R. A.; to the members of the press of Cincinnati, Victor Oberly, proprietor of the Oberly House, H. C. Wilson, of the Henrie House, C. Broomall, Covington, Barber & Clark, Newport, and to the members of the "Pape Barge Club," particularly Mr. K. B. Hanson, Secretary, for his exceptionally kind and generous treatment.

2d. That we hereby tender to the parties named above all the rights and privileges of members of our club, and will be pleased to reciprocate their attentions at any time they may visit our city.

Diamond Savings' Bank of Pittsburgh.

OCTOBER 15th, 1872.

At a special meeting of the Board of Directors of the Diamond Savings' Bank, held this day, for the purpose of taking action relative to the death of James M. Cooper, late presiding officer of the bank, Andrew L. Robinson, Esq., was chosen chairman, and John S. Scully appointed secretary. Adams Getty, W. D. Cooper and Joseph Fleming were appointed a committee on resolutions.

The following resolutions were adopted:

Resolved, That in the death of our late worthy President, James M. Cooper, Esq., our board has lost one of its most energetic, upright and faithful members; one who was always at his post faithfully guarding the interests confided to him.

Resolved, That in his death the business community of Allegheny county lose one who has always been among the foremost in business enterprises tending to develop the wealth and resources of this community, and one who, for rectitude of purpose, uprightness of conduct and firmness of principle, was equaled by few and surpassed by none.

Resolved, That we deeply mourn our loss and sincerely sympathize with the bereaved family in their great and irreparable loss, and would say to them not to mourn over much, as we feel assured that their loss is his great gain.

Resolved, That this Board meet at the bank and attend the funeral in a body.

Resolved, That a copy of the foregoing resolutions be handed to the family of deceased; a copy entered on the minutes of the bank, and a copy handed the papers for publication.

American Fire Insurance Company of Philadelphia.

Attention is called to the card of this company in another column, by which it will be seen that the American is one of those time-honored, fire-tested, wealthy corporations whose policies are eagerly sought by those desiring reliable insurance.

The American has a long record of successful under-writing extending over a period of sixty-two years. The capital and accumulations now exceed the sum of eleven hundred thousand dollars. It was first represented in Pittsburgh in 1822.

These facts show that the American is eminently worthy of the confidence and patronage of this community. Messrs. R. Edwards & Son represent this Co. at their office, No. 38 Wood street, and to those wanting policies of undoubted security we would say, give Messrs. Edwards a call.

The Great Organ—The Burdett—No Sham Stops.

The Burdett Organ is the only one which contains no sham stops; every stop having a distinctive variety of tone. Purchasers are not deceived by an array of sham stops which other makers purposely get up to mislead unsuspecting customers, and to obtain higher prices than the instruments are really worth. For instance, the celebrated Celeste Stop is in the Burdett Organ, composed of a separate and distinct set of reeds, producing a delightful tone, while in most other organs there is no separate set of reeds, and the effect is but a muddy conglomeration of sound. If you desire an Organ the most complete in tone and durability, and returning you dollar for dollar in musical excellence, get the Burdett, and which can be obtained only at H. Kleber & Bro's. Warerooms, No. 122 Wood street. These first-class Burdetts are offered as low as the ordinary slop shop organ, which has to be peddled around the country in order to find customers.

The Allegheny Homestead Bank.

This is the name of a new financial institution located at No. 244 Beaver avenue, and commencing business under the most favorable auspices. Notwithstanding the large number of banks in Pittsburgh and Allegheny, there is room for more, and with the evidence of able management presented in the names of the well known and successful business men composing the officers and directors of the Allegheny Homestead Bank, there can be no reason to doubt that it will soon rank among our most prosperous and successful banks. The institution has been chartered on the individual liability plan, and goes into operation with a capital of $200,000. Six per cent. interest is allowed on time deposits, and any amount will be received, from one dollar upwards.

The Daily Commercial.

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 16, 1872.

The Philadelphia Press has come to the conclusion that General HARTRANFT owes his election to the fact that Pennsylvania is a Republican State. There is no more doubt of it than there is that that paper owes the complete loss of its influence to the fact that it has for months ceased to be a Republican journal.

In summing up the results of the wonderful progress of Chicago since the fire, the Tribune of that city remarks on the extraordinary increase of its manufactures, and says, very justly, that in their prosperity, even more than in that of commerce, consists the sure guarantee of the future welfare of the city. Quite true. And now perhaps that paper will reflect for a moment upon the number of manufactories Chicago would have been likely to possess, had the policy of the government with respect to these "sure guarantees of the future welfare" of the country been moulded in the past to suit its own free trade theories and notions? It will find the subject decidedly interesting.

It must, of course, involve a heavy draft on one's "reconciliatory" resources to bring himself to "clasp hands" across the "chasm" with those whom, having hated and abused during a life-time, he is now, by the logic of events, compelled to recognize as his political equals. Still, if when next the Pittsburgh Post finds its wrath mounting into its throat at the thought that "nearly a million of ignorant blacks were admitted at once to full citizenship," it will try to remember, also, that the act in question was one of supreme necessity as well as of vital justice, and that the enfranchised race have thoroughly demonstrated their fitness for the exercise of the elective franchise by invariably voting right on all occasions since, the recollection of these redeeming features of the matter will, doubtless, cause our neighbor to moderate considerably the tone of its displeasure.

The Tribune begins to back down from its mendacious charge that General HARTRANFT's splendid majority was the result of fraud, admitting that a large proportion of it was "directly traceable to apathetic or discontented Democrats." This acknowledgment is made by way of introduction to an editorial indorsement of the address of the Democratic National Committee, referred to in these columns yesterday, which the Tribune characterizes as bearing the marks of high courage and wisdom. That paper, therefore, which first insults the honest and intelligent Republicans of Pennsylvania by charging them with infamous practices, now, when it serves its purpose, turns round and confesses itself a slanderer by imputing the defeat of the Confederates to the lukewarmness or susceptibility to bribery of the Democracy themselves. Is it any wonder that men who respect themselves should, without distinction of party, everywhere indignantly resent such outrageous attacks upon them, or repudiate the movement by whose principal organ they are made?

An election for State officers, Legislature and members of Congress takes place in South Carolina to-day. There is no Democratic ticket in the field, but one wing of the Republican party, dissatisfied—and to a considerable extent justifiably so—with the regular nominations, has nominated REUBEN TOMLINSON for Governor against F. J. MOSES, the regular candidate, as also a full ticket for State officers, besides candidates for Congress in several districts. It is probable that the Democracy will generally support this latter ticket, although there is but little likelihood of the defeat of MOSES. Two amendments to the State Constitution are also to be voted upon, one of which provides that the State election shall hereafter take place on the same day as the Presidential election, in the years in which that is held; while the other prohibits the Legislature from creating any debt, except for the ordinary business of the State, without first submitting the question at a general State election, and obtaining in its favor a two-thirds vote of the people. This latter amendment will undoubtedly be ratified.

REMARKING on the extraordinary triumph achieved by the Republicans of Pennsylvania over the combined Confederate forces at the late election, a Boston paper appeals to the people of Massachusetts to increase the seventy-eight thousand majority given for President GRANT four years ago, to at least eighty thousand this year; warning them that unless they do so, that State will probably lose its position at the head of the national Republican column, and urging them not to let Pennsylvania deprive it of its laurels as the Banner Republican State of the Union. "Pennsylvania has done so well," in the late election, that paper says, that unless extraordinary efforts are put forth by Massachusetts to keep what it won in 1868, the Keystone State will in all likelihood pass to the front in the coming struggle. This is not at all improbable. The firm devotion of her people to Republican principles has received so strong an impulse from their honest indignation over the disreputable course pursued by the defeated coalition during the campaign, that nothing can break their unalterable resolution to scourge Greeleyism completely out of sight. The work will go on with increased vigor to the end.

The latest exemplification of "Liberal" fair-mindedness and desire for "reconciliation" is afforded by a New England GREELEY paper, which, referring to the President's Thanksgiving Proclamation, intimates that it comes suspiciously hard upon the heels of the October elections, and suggests grave doubts whether the "carpet-bagged" States will consider themselves exempt, in the language of the proclamation, "from any grievance or general calamity." According to that journal, therefore, we are not yet a nation, but merely a league of States; since the term, in the connection in which it is used, implies that the people of one State have no right in another except as conceded to them by the latter; showing clearly enough that, even in the minds of some Northern people, the great issue is by no means settled as it ought to be and must be before reconstruction and "reconciliation" can be made complete. The COMMERCIAL has never attempted to defend or palliate the malpractices of any of the unscrupulous politicians with which the Southern States are afflicted; but when we find the pivotal question on which, even perhaps more than on slavery itself, the entire rebellion hinged, again brought up as good "Liberal" doctrine, it is time for thoughtful men everywhere to reflect upon the consequences which sooner or later must inevitably ensue should Greeleyism ever obtain control of the affairs of the General Government.

THE World still continues its heartless persecution of HORACE GREELEY, roasting him before a slow fire of killing irony. "Some men's sins," it moralizes, quoting from an authority not commonly recognized by journals of its ilk, "are open before hand, going before to judgment, and some men they follow after." Ostensibly, the World makes this text the basis for a discourse on the alleged misdoings of the Republican party, but anybody who can read between the lines will see in a moment that the real object of attack is GREELEY himself. Thus, when that paper speaks of political shortcomings which "repel at once the best intelligence and the highest virtue of the American people," it does but repeat, in paraphrastic form, what, a few days prior to the assembling of the Baltimore Convention, it said with respect to its present candidate. "A thousand National Conventions," it then exclaimed, "could not effect a result so unnatural" as his election; asserting, further, the long and the short of the matter to be "that Mr. GREELEY's ignominious failure as a candidate is ordained in the fitness of things," and declaring that the only question left open for the consideration of the Democracy was, whether they, too, should plunge into the yawning abyss that was about to swallow him up. Of course the World does not intend that GREELEY shall know it is simply making diabolical sport of him, because that would rob its cruelty of its finest flavor. But just conceive the intense delight which it takes in inflicting torment upon its hapless victim.

THE tone of the Confederate press with regard to the situation shows two things; that the original concoctors of the conspiracy are greatly alarmed at the heavy stampede which is going on from the GREELEY corral to the Republican camp; and that, having themselves nothing to lose but everything to win, they intend to keep up to the end the deception they have practiced from the beginning. When the elections in Vermont and Maine had shown them how unqualifiedly the people of those States indorsed the administration of President GRANT, and how miserably their own mean attempts to create disaffection in the Republican ranks had failed, they declared that the New England States had not a thorough appreciation of the questions at issue, and that the proper field of effort was in the Middle States, every one of which they confidently claimed for the GREELEY column. Now that these States have in turn trampled the insolent imposture flat, the same leaders are making as loud boasts of carrying the States which have not yet voted, as they did of sweeping Vermont and Maine, after their reverse in North Carolina, and of securing the October States, after being routed out of New England; on the same basis of calculation, too, with the same figures, and with every prospect of similar inaccuracy. The reason of all this is, of course, plain. They see that large numbers of Democrats are thoroughly disgusted with the whole business, and that since the candidature of the nominee of the coalition is expressly based on the assumption that old party ties are everywhere broken, tens of thousands of them will come over to the Republican ranks unless the delusive anticipation of ultimate victory can still be kept up in their minds. Hence the address of SCHELL, of the various State and local Democratic committees, and of the general concerted attempt on the part of the GREELEY managers to arrest the constantly increasing movement of deserters from the beaten Confederate standards. But the trick won't win, and the defection will go on with steadily augmenting strength, from now until the fifth of November.

SPEAKER BLAINE AND THE NEW YORK TRIBUNE.

Ever since the Maine election the New York Tribune has exhibited a spirit of malignant rancor toward Speaker BLAINE. One of its constant charges is that Speaker BLAINE entered Congress a "poor man" in 1863, and is now a "millionaire." As to his being a millionaire, it is to be presumed the assertion is merely one of those extravagant statements which belong to the literature of a heated campaign. But as to his being a "poor man in 1863," every one familiar with the coal trade and the value of coal properties in our immediate vicinage on the Monongahela river, knows the assertion to be completely at variance with the fact. Long before 1863, indeed, as far back as the Democratic administration of President BUCHANAN, it was well known that Mr. BLAINE owned one of the finest coal properties on the Monongahela, which returned a much larger income than a Congressional salary, many years before he was a candidate for Congress. This fact the Allegheny County Registry of Deeds establishes in the most indisputable manner, and we refer to it simply to show how wild and reckless the Tribune has grown to be in its charges against conspicuous and influential Republicans.

It should be stated, moreover, that the business reputation of Mr. BLAINE in trade circles, where he is well known here, stands very high. Those who are familiar with his attention to details, his industry, his energy, his enterprise, and his integrity, find no cause for wonder in the fact that he has become, not a millionaire, but a man of independent fortune, destined probably, in the development and advance of his property, ultimately to attain to the possession of large wealth. Will the Tribune have the candor to state these simple facts?

A Counterfeit Lord and Genuine Swindler.

Sometime last spring we gave in the COMMERCIAL an account of the arrest in New York of a young man calling himself Lord Gordon, at the suit of Jay Gould to recover some half million dollars' worth of railroad stocks and money, which the soi disant Scottish nobleman became possessed of through false and fraudulent representations. "Gordon Harcourt Gordon," it seems, played a very nice little game. He occupied a magnificent suite of apartments at Metropolitan Hotel, where he was surrounded with all the luxuries and paraphernalia of wealth that the purse of a Crœsus could procure. Securing an introduction to Col. Thomas A. Scott through "Dr." Greeley, with whom he seems to have had some transactions, his Lordship broached to the railway magnate a project by which a very large amount of money could be made in "Erie." Col. Scott, however, was not to be entrapped by his glittering scheme, and turned him over to the tender mercies of Jay Gould. The latter fell an easy victim to the plausible young sharper, hence the suit. Gould has, since the arrest of the "noble lord of high degree," had a detective at work in England and Scotland hunting up facts pertinent to the case. It is hardly necessary to state that no such person as Viscount Gordon Harcourt Gordon is known there, while the persons he gave as references were mythical. He will probably occupy palatial apartments in Sing Sing before many days have passed.

What the Democrats are Hearing from the South.

The Democratic National Committee are not receiving as good news from the South as they could wish. According to the Herald's report of what is going on at the headquarters, "prominent gentlemen from the South are in the city, and their presence here and the immense number of letters received from that section by the committee asking of the situation, and seeking some encouragement, show how important the crisis is considered by our Southern brethren. It is appreciated by those conducting the campaign that a feeling is very generally rife that such change in the financial policy of the government as will prove immediately disastrous to the business interests of the country will follow upon the election of Greeley, and that the people, fearing this, are disposed to keep the present administration in power, though its acts are in many respects not approved.

Pennsylvania Coal Trade.

The Miners' Journal says: "The quantity sent by rail for the last week was 93,155 tons and by canal 21,611; for the week, 114,766 tons, against 136,570 tons for the corresponding week last year. Decrease for the week, 21,804 tons. The supply of anthracite from all the regions for the week was 445,-038 tons, and bituminous 48,197 tons—for the week, 493,245 tons, against 521,697 for the corresponding week last year. Loss for the week, 28,452 tons. The total supply of anthracite so far this year is 15,019,503 tons, against 11,119,852 to same period last year; increase so far, 3,839,650 tons. The supply of all kinds to date embraced in our table is 16,666,876 tons, against 12,814,196 tons for the corresponding period last year. Increase so far this year, 3,846,680 tons. The average weekly shipments last year to December 1, 1871, were 491,400 tons, so that this week's supply exceeds the average of last year 1,841 tons. The election held during this week will lessen the supply for the present week."

How it Appears to Canadians.

[From the Toronto Globe.]

It is now almost certain that Mr. Greeley will be numbered in the long list of able men who have vainly aspired to the Presidency of the United States; and his want of success may be attributed as much to the suspicion with which the public viewed his sudden friendship for life-long opponents as to his warm advocacy of peculiar and partisan opinions. The failure of the Cincinnati movement is due mainly to the "managers," who looked solely for an available candidate, and adopted one who excited extraordinary enthusiasm, but who was not acceptable to the mass of the people when they at length calmly deliberated upon the respective merits of the rival candidates.

PORTSMOUTH, O., is all agog over a "phantom photograph" sensation. A noted courtesan, Mollie Sullivan, died a few days since, and on one of the windows of the room she occupied is said to be visible a well defined picture of the woman. The pane on which the picture appears has been taken out and examined, but looks exactly like the other glass in the window. As soon as replaced the likeness reappeared. A correspondent of the Cincinnati Gazette has visited the house, and describes what he saw and heard, as follows: I have just returned from an examination. Perhaps five hundred people are now witnessing the strage phenomenon. To my vision there was only apparent the general outlines of a face, the flow of the hair and the curve of the eybrows being well defined. I could see this much from the street, at any point within fifty yards, when the window was fully visible. But the most distinct view was presented from the yard of the house next above at a distance of about fifty feet. I there fancy I saw the color of the dress—dark ground work, with white spots—a bow or locket on the bosom; the posture, sitting with the face nearly fronting the window; some person or thing standing behind and to the right of the picture—picture's right. I tried in vain to force upon my imagination any such appearance in the other panes of glass. As a nearer view the picture becomes more confused; a magnifying glass does not make the outlines any more definite. The excitement has given birth to the usual amount of superstitious gossip and exaggerated stories born by excited imaginations, but the universal admission of the resemblance of a bust seen through the window from the outside, and apparently sitting a little distance from the window within, is sufficient to excite some inquiry as to the cause of the appearance, and may possibly afford some clue to the mysteries connected with the art of photography. The only natural solution coming within any known hypothesis, is that the accidental formation of the glass reflects an outline resembling the human face, and that imagination fills up the space, and this is perhaps the true solution, but it is curious enough to challenge investigation."

A DR. AINSANSEL, lately Professor of Music and Modern Languages in the Union School at Westfield, N. Y., has again brought himself into rather unenviable notoriety. A few months ago he secured a divorce from his wife, on the ground that she had been guilty of adulterous practices with a certain Rev. Dr. Thompson, of Jamestown, N. Y., the latter testifying to the truth of the charge in court. Before the decree was granted, however, Ainsansel eloped with one of his pupils, a very respectable young lady. His latest exploit was to desert his last victim, hire a livery horse and buggy which he took to Olean and sold. He also borrowed a watch from a Westfield jeweler, which he took with him. On a former occasion he was arrested for forgery and lodged in jail; and on being released on bail he hired a horse and rode away, selling the animal to pay his expenses on the journey.

WHEN a shell is held up to the ear, there is a peculiar vibratory noise. Philosophically investigated, the peculiar sound thus recognized is a phenomenon that very much perplexed learned gentlemen for a long while. The experiment is easily made by simply pressing a spiral shell, common in collections, over the cerebrum of either ear. If a large shell, the sound is very much like that of a far-off cataract. Now, what causes it? Every muscle in the body is always in a state of tension. Some are more on the stretch than others, particularly those of the fingers. It is conceded that the vibration of the fibers of those in the fingers being communicated to the shell, it propagates and intensifies it, as the hollow body of a violin does the vibration of its strings, and thus the acoustic nerve receives the sonorous impressions. Muscles of the leg below the knee are said to vibrate in the same way, and if conducted to the ear produce the same result.

AN eminent English statistician, wholly unconnected with the temperance movement, has published a series of tables showing that the mortality among temperance men insured in a number of life insurance offices in England during the last five years was twenty-six per cent. below the averages upon which the tables are calculated, whilst in the "general section," which is open to the public, it was only seven per cent. The general average of pecuniary results for ten years, as shown by the reversionary bonus declared on the premiums, was fifty-three per cent. from the amount of premiums paid in the total abstinence section, and thirty-four in the general; an advantage of nearly one-third in favor of temperance as compared with even moderate drinking.

There is no limit to the capacity jo Yankee enterprise. A lively son of Anak from the hills of Vermont hears of Professor Tyndall's "Prayer-guage;" and what does he do? Why, only one thing, of course—writes to the Professor soliciting an agency for the sale of his patent!

There are rumors of another explosion in the affairs of Erie. Several stockholders, disgusted at the present state of affairs, are said to be preparing a statement which which will put the new management in an unfavorable light, and represent it as no better th n the old one.

GENERAL AND PARTICULAR.

Middletown, Connecticut, has obtained three thousand dollars for licenses to sell l quor, and proposes to use that sum as a fund for the relief of families who suffer from the effects of drunkenness. If it comes to a competition between the liquor dealers and the town authorities for the ruin or salvation of families, the latter party in the game will probably need larger funds to win.

No matter which way the Emperor William decides the dispute between the United States and Great Britain concerning the island of San Juan, its inhabitants will lose their present delightful immunity from taxes, politics and custom houses. Whether the boundary line is run so as to give them to us or Great Britain, they must bid farewell to the freedom they have enjoyed during the dispute from the care of government, and must, like other mortals, take up their political burden.

Up to the present time there have been but seventy applications for space in the international fair at Vienna by Americans. These have been chiefly for the exhibitions of machinery—sewing and agricultural machines—and pianos. But one application in the art department has been made. As soon as Congress convenes there will probably be made more complete arrangements for exhibition.

Prof. Lapham, of the United States telegraph service, has published a report on the forest fires last year. He believes that all our prairies were originally wooded, and that they have been cleared wholly by fire, which, he says, destroys everything on and in them except the roots of the buffalo-grass. Since this is so, it follows that the land is perfectly well adapted for timber-growth. If trees are planted and protected, they will flourish.

PERSONAL.

It is said that Edwin Forrest has the most unique dramatic library in America, and a gallery of personal photographs, led off by a full-length, sun copy of himself, taken by a Boston artist, that has no parallel in the world. It is lifelike and life-size, and you feel like talking to it as you see it. "The Dog of Montargis," which acted with him when he was a poor stroller, is painted from the real, and when Colonel Scott, the railroad king, called on Forrest, the king of the stage, a few days ago, Forrest pointed to this picture, and said: "He often got more applause than I did, and when he was poisoned at New Orleans, I had him painted after he died. He was one of my best friends, for he never complained, was ready to share with me my sorrow, and always rejoiced over my triumphs."

Mr. Greeley has calls to speak in various places in the South. He has been invited to deliver an address at the Agricultural Fair at Leesburg, Loudon county, Va. A committee from Lynchburg, the other day, invited Mr. Greeley to attend and deliver an address at the Lynchburg Fair, on the 21st of this month, but as he is engaged to speak at the North Carolina Fair on the 23d, at Goldsborough, it is not likely the invitation will be accepted.

Stokes, the taker-off of Fisk, and Foster, the car-hook murderer, occupy cells upon the same floor, and within twenty feet of each other, at the Tombs in New York. Dr. Ralph Aulick, a son of the Commodore, died at Washington the other day. As he was supposed to be unmarried, his father's family was much surprised to find a widow with a will of her own, given her by her husband, the deceased Ralph. He was married, so the certificate reads, to Miss Emma Oler, of Washington, in March, 1871, but the nuptials were kept a profound secret for fear that the old Commodore would go into a tearing rage about it. The widow, the will and the marriage certificate have all been accepted as genuine by the Commodore's family. The widow has been for some years clerk in the redemption division of the Treasury Department.

An item of news comes from Maine which will make glad the hearts of many aspiring women. A strange story is told by the Albany Knickerbocker. A New York merchant was engaged to the daughter of a well-known citizen of Albany, and the marriage was to have taken place last Tuesday. The parents of the lady were illy satisfied with her choice, but she persisted in it. Early on that morning preparations were put on foot for the consummation of the marriage contract. Just as the New York gentleman was about to start for the residence of his bride that was to be, his senses were paralyzed, his brain turned topsy-turvy, and the man who a few moments before was one of the happiest mortals on earth, was a lunatic. He exhibited evidences of raving madness. This of course was an end to all further preparations or ceremonies. The would-be bride laid aside her lace robes and orange blossoms, and the insane groom in his suit of black was conveyed to a prison cell for safe keeping.

Money, it is said, has been the aim and object of a niece of Daniel Webster for twenty years. In 1852 she married for money, and now she keeps a lodging house in Boston, and her husband runs a fish stall in Faneuil Market, for the same thing she married for, years ago—money.

ADDRESS

Of the Republican State Central Committee.

HEADQUARTERS REPUBLICAN STATE CENTRAL COMMITTEE OF PENNSYLVANIA,
PHILADELPHIA, October 14, 1872.

The Republican State Committee tenders its hearty thanks to the Republicans of the State for the devotion they have shown to their principles, and the firmness with which they have maintained the integrity of the party against the fierce assault made upon it.

We cannot, without being invidious, select individuals for special mention, but our thanks are particularly due to the chairmen of the several Republican county committees for their faithful and efficient co-operation, to the many gentleman throughout the State who have given their time and talents to advocating our cause on the stump, to the able speakers from abroad who aided us, and to the Republican newspaper press of the State, which has, by its zeal and ability, commended itself anew to the confidence and regard of our people.

The November battle yet remains to be fought. Practically, its result may be said to be known beyond doubt; but much remains to be done to make that result certain. We go into the fight with our hearts cheered by the great victory just won; and we must win for Grant a still greater triumph than that we have just gained for Hartranft.

In carrying on this struggle to its certain and triumphant conclusion, some who have fought us bitterly and taken active part with th the enemy, will attempt to regain in our ranks the places they have willfully forsaken. No one has the right to say that these men shall not now come in and vote for Grant; but we have the right to say, and we trust that the chairman of every Republican county committee in the State will unite with us in saying, emphatically and irrevocably, that no one who fought against Hartranft shall be permitted to make a speech under our auspices for Grant. Let them hold meetings of their own, if they will, but not with our aid or permission.

Very respectfully,
RUSSELL ERRETT, Chairman.

A PUSILLANIMOUS POTENTATE.

The Boy-King of Bavaria—He Plays at Government and Makes a Business of Music and Romance.

A correspondent of the Boston Advertiser writes from Berlin during the imperial fetes:

The pretty boy who is now on the Bavarian throne was carried away for a time by patriotic feelings, and behaved extremely well. He is, however, a fantastical youth, whose brain must have been somewhate deranged by too much music and romance for even his best friends must allow that there is somewhere a screw loose in his head. About the government he does not care much; it is a bore to him, and he is glad if ministers take that trouble from his shoulders. He has however, a great idea about his rank as a king, and especially about his family, and is very sensitive on this point. The Romance party, knowing this weakness very well, made use of it, and not without success; for the liberal policy in reference to the Roman church, inaugurated by Bismarck, and sustained by the late Bavarian minister, has changed remarkably. The honors which were showered upon the crown prince of Germany when inspecting troops in Bavaria, and in which the whole people took part with all their heart, were most welcome to the ultramontanes, for they hurt and offended the king very much, and the more, as he is not very popular. No wonder; he does nothing to deserve the love of his people, and his shyness and peculiar manner is ascribed to indifference. During the whole French war he did not once visit his brave army. He is idling away his time with fantastical and personal pursuits. Sensible Bavarians shrug their shoulders impatiently in speaking of him, and in comparing him with the manly future emperor of Germany, he is dwindling away to an almost contemptible nothing. The German crown prince led the Bavarian troops to victory, and his noble and prudent behavior in reference to them, especially in the battles of Weissenbourg and Woerth, has won their whole heart. Moreover, he is free and open-spoken, naturally friendly to every one, without an air of condescension—in a word, forming a striking contrast to the shy royal hermit of Bavaria. The love, or rather attachment, of the Germans for their princes is, however, very great, and the Bavarians would pardon their king a great deal if he would continue going with the spirt of the times; but should he really lean again to the Roman party, and listen to their temptation, it is not impossible that the Bavarians might one day discover that they could do much better without a king who neither cares for his people nor for his government. Nowadays it is generally believed that kings have to perform duties. The king of Wurtemberg was always led by his ultramontane advisers, and the time may come when some political wave may sweep him away, together with that insignificant person wearing the grand-ducal crown of Hesse-Darmstadt. The nearest relationship to great and mighty emperors is no longer a protection. Crowns are maintained on heads only by the love of the people and strong armies. All Germany was looking with great and painful interest on the issue of the changes which were preparing in Bavaria, and it created general indignation when a decided ultramontane, Mr. Von Gasser, was requested to form a new cabinet. While this unpopular gentleman was trying in vain to induce some other persons to enter his cabinet, and to swim with him against the current of the tide, Count Faufkirchen, the Bavarian minister in Rome, was caused to come to Berlin, where he had some conversation which must have been rather explicit, for he hurried to Munich, where he arrived on the night of the 5th instant, and had, in the morning, a meeting with the secretary of State, Von Lutz, and other personages. The result is the killing off of the ultramontane embryo ministry, and it is supposed that the present minister of finance, Von Pfretzschner, will become president of the cabinet.

Street Gas Lamps Controlled by Atmospheric Pressure.

A Mr. McCracken has invented a process by which street lamps can be lit and controlled at will by means of atmospheric pressure. The invention was tested in Jersey City last week, and proved entirely sucessful. Fifty-three lights were attached to some 9,000 feet of pipe extending nearly a mile and a half. These lights, to the whole extent, were then seen to go down or brighten, according to the desire of the regulator, and at a given time. A small in strument, constructed of brass, and consisting of a valve opened and closed by the action of a diaphragm, is attached to each lamp, and connected with a pipe independent to the main one, through which the air is forced, being regulated in the pressure room of the gas works. A very small jet of gas, however, has to be kept burning constantly, so that when the gas is forced through the valve it is ignited. This jet is protected from the wind or rain. The inventor contends that the small amount of gas consumed by the necessity of a constant light is nothing, against the expense of lamp-lighters; and that one cubic foot of gas used every twenty-four hours is equal to the services of twenty-seven lighters. The amount of light can be regulated by the amount of pressure, and can be all under the control of one man. If it is desired at any time to only partially light the city, in case of a moonlight night, for instance, every other lamp can be lighted or the amount in all subdued. The inventor also claims that it is perhaps an hour or so before all the lamps can be attended to by a lighter, whereas by this means the city can be illuminated in an instant. He claims that it would save New York $30,000 per annum.

Paper from Corn Husks.

The German manufacturers have been very successful in the production of paper and cloth from corn husks, the machinery required for the manipulating process being essentially the same as that originally employed in American paper mills working on rags. The husks, it appears, are first boiled with an alkali in tubular boilers, as a result of which the fibers of the husks are found at the bottom of the boiler in a spongy condition, filled with a glutinous substance or dough, which latter is pressed out from the fibers by hydraulic presses, leaving the fiber in the shape of longitudinal threads, interspersed with a dense mass of short fiber.

Linen that is made from these long fibers is aid to furnish a very good substitute for the coarser kinds of flax and hemp, while it is superior to jute gunny cloth, and the like. The paper, for which mostly the short fibers are used—the long fibers constituting the material for spinning—is stronger than papers of the same weight made from linen or cotton rags.

The hardness and firmness of grain characterizing the paper thus made are said to even exceed that of the best made English paper. Its durability exceeds that of paper produced from any other substance, and it can be made extremely transparent without sacrificing any portion of its strength. The fiber is easily worked, either alone or mixed with rags, into the finest writing or printing papers, and it readily takes any tint or color that may be desired. The yield of the husks employed for the purpose is said to be as follows: thirty per cent. of fiber, ten of gluten, and sixty of dough.

A Wealthy Island.

[From the Muscatine (Iowa) Journal, Sept. 27.]

A thickly-wooded island, known as Long Island, about fourteen miles above this city, in the Mississippi, has turned out to be a regular robbers, nest, a sort of Isle of Monte Christo, so far as secreting valuables is concerned. The discovery was made by the police of Davenport, who, having had their suspicions around, visited the spot last Monday, but on reaching it found the birds had flown. Many evidences, however, of occupation of the island were strewn around. Boxes of all kinds and many sizes were thick on the ground, with bits of paper and pieces of twine and rope, here and there an old garment, and many signs of carpenter work. According to the report of farmers living near by, the island had been abandoned by the villains only the day before, when they had loaded a large yawl and a skiff with plunder, and started southward. None of the houses in the vicinity of the island have been disturbed by the thieves, and the farmers thought, the people on the island were a party of sportsmen, for they were often seen fishing in the river and starting off with guns on their shoulders, as if going off on a hunt. It is supposed that most of the burglaries which have been committed in Davenport, Muscatine, Wilton, West Liberty and others localities in this section during the summer where the work of an organized band which inhabited the island, who used the secluded spot for secreting their ill-gotten goods. But it is hoped that they are now gone to return no more, and that burglarized communities can hereafter rest undisturbed in their slumber.

Dog Tails.

The following essay on dogs was written by a small New England boy, this summer: As this is the tail of a dog, it may be inferred that every dog has a tail, and that every tail has a dog. I have never seen a dog's tail run over two feet, but the tail of a dog can run any length, and two feet always run under the tail. As every dog has its tail and every tail its dog, so also has every tail its wag and every wag his tail; a dog can wag his tail one day out of two, but a wag can tell his tale eight days out of a week, making a total difference between the wag of a tail and the tale of a wag of two days, seven wags and a tail. Mr. Shakespeare (late of England) says that every dog has his day, but it can also be said that every day has its dog, so that we have day-dogs and dog days—dog-days are twenty-four hours long without the tail, but day-dogs and watch-dogs run to any length if they are not chained. A watch-dog on land is the same as the dog-watch on board ship, but they are entirely different from dogging a man's watch and watching a man's dog. I have often seen star-fish, but I never herd of a star-dog, although astronomers do say there is a dog-star, and that by falling down over a dog you can see stars, but this double vision does not affect the measurment of a dog; he contains just eight feet, two fore and two hind. There are many ways in which this dog's tail could be drawn out, but a good healthy dog's tail should not be over six inches long.

Another Mammoth Cave in Kentucky.

[From the Owen County (Ky.) News.]

A wonderful cave was discovered last week within one-fourth of a mile of Gratz, the Kentucky river, in Owen county. F. K. Riley, W. M. Russell, S. Lyons and Thos. Wainscott, reliable men of this county, report that they discovered the opening of a cave in the river bottom. They procured ropes and a light, and after descending 40 feet perpendicular that the cave opens into a room 15 by 30 feet. Passing through this room some distance on a horizontal plain, in a narrow passage, they come to another room 60 by 30 feet, then the opening narrowed for a distance, when they came into another room 20 by 40 feet. They examined this cave for nearly a quarter of a mile, discovered another opening, but did not pursue it, and have no doubt but there is a grand run of caves under all that country about Gratz. The cave starts in the river bottom and runs under the Kentucky hills. The ceiling of the cave was so high they could not see much of it with their dim light; they saw stalactites and stalagmites, the first formed like icicles on the rocks above, and the latter by the dripping of lime water on the rocks below. Parties about Gratz expect to make a thorough exploration of this wonderful cave, and it may be that it will be as great a natural curiosity as the Mammoth cave. We have been in the Mammoth cave, and the description given of this Gratz cave, as far as explored, is very similar.

IT IS estimated that within five years 20,000,000 bushels of wheat per annum, from Minnesota and the valley of the Red river of the North, will find their way to tide-water through the narrow channel of the Sault Ste. Marie canal. The canal has recently been widened and deepened, and admits the passage of boats of the largest dimensions in use upon the lakes, but in the future it may have to be still further enlarged. Duluth expects to send cargoes direct to Liverpool and Marseilles before long.

Our Bodily Infirmities.

Physical infirmities are the lot of all. Millions are always sick. No man, woman or child is uniformly in perfect health. Much, however, of the sickness and suffering which render life a burden to so many of our fellow beings is due to carelessness and neglect. A mighty antidote to the leading causes of disease has been provided. It is as harmless as it is efficient. No poisonous drug enters into its composition. It is an undefiled stimulant, tonic and aperient, of which every ingredient is vegetable. This unexceptionable preventive and restorative medicine is not "a new thing under the sun." Hostetter's Stomach Bitters will soon have been before the world a quarter of a century, and it is not too much to aver that thousands, aye, tens of thousands, are now using it who would have been in their graves years ago had they not been strengthened and sustained by this wholesome stimulant. The rapidity with which minor ailments often become, when neglected, obstinate diseases, is well known. This tonic is famous for the immediate check which it gives to these breeders of deadly disorders. The sensation of languor, the sick headache, the nervousness, the indisposition to exertion, the nausea, the confusion of brain, the physical debility, which are intended to premonish us of the approach of serious danger, are invariably removed by a few doses of the bitters. The fame of the preparation as a genuine specific for dyspepsia, billious complaints, malarious fevers, rheumatism and chronic debility, is as wide as the world; and in these days of infamous charlatanism, when fierce cathartics, that rob the invalid of the last remnants of his strength, are advertised as invigorants (!), it is indeed a blessing to mankind that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters are everywhere procurable, and everywhere popular.

CONSUMPTION.

This fearful disease that carries off its thousands every year in almost every clime, and which, to the inexperienced practitioners of medicine has been such a monster, has received such a serious check in its devastating march in the prescription prepared by

Rev. E. A. WILSON.

This reverend gentleman was himself a great sufferer, and can, therefore, sympathize with the afflicted. He has found a cure which, having tried and proven, he can confidently recommend. This is no new thing, gotten up to deceive the sufferer. The proprietor, Rev. Mr. Wilson, is well known, and his remedy has been before the public for the last ten years, during which, by fair and honorable dealings, he has built up a reputation which is an honor to his philanthrophy.—Richmond Times.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

TUESDAY EVENING, October 15, 1872.

The presence in the city of numerous gentlemen with small satchels on Fourth avenue, representing the banks in the neighborhood, indicates that their wants are pressing, and that it requires personal presence to add to their appeal for money to accomplish the desired result. The banks here report the demand from this class of borrowers to be greater than at any time during the season, and that they are ready to pay rates unusual on the part of banking institutions, to have their paper discounted. This additional drain on our city banks does not tend to ease the market, but turns the screw down another thread.

—For the purpose of showing the relative extent of the grain movement at the West this season, compared with previous years, we present the following table of the receipts at Chicago, Milwaukee, Detroit, Cleveland, Toledo and St. Louis, from August 1 to October 5, in several years:

	1872.	1871.
Flour, bbls	973,966	1,339,475
Wheat, bush	15,355,182	19,690,501
Corn	18,762,620	13,761,019
Oats	6,193,917	10,846,057
Barley	2,624,034	3,100,674
Rye	525,484	1,477,200
Total grain, bush	23,46 ,237	48,875,451

	Barrels.
Total exports of flour from all ports for 1871 and 1872	271,270
For 1870–71	1,371,902
Decrease	1,100,632

	Bushels.
Total export of wheat from all ports for 1871 and 1872	19,525,929
For 1870–71	26,055,175
Decrease	6,529,246

We give the above for the purpose of showing the probable effect the grain movement will have on our foreign exchange market and home gold market. The Bank of England, finding her coin reserve down ten millions as compared with the same season of 1871, has raised the rate of discount to six per cent. to attract the bullion into her vaults. The balance of trade has been running heavily against us, and with the above heavy falling off in our exports of grain the deficit must be made up with coin. If this movement proves as extensive as we anticipate, it will have the effect of sustaining the price of gold, keeping money scarce during the fall, and probably cause a decline in the price of stocks. Such would be the logic of the market, but experience proves that the stock market is most apt to move in the direction least expected.

—Messrs. Ira B. McVay & Co. report the following quotations of Government bonds in New York to-day, as furnished them by Jay Cooke & Co., their correspondents:

PRODUCE AND GENERAL MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH COMMERCIAL,
TUESDAY, October 15, 1872.

REMARKS—The general aspect of the market gives it a bright outlook, far better at this season than we have seen it for a number of years; in fact, our merchants have been laying in large stocks of merchandise since the result of the elections is decided, but notwithstanding all this many of them are behind in filling country orders. Our grain and flour dealers are clamorous for more rapid freight shipments, being unable to receive their corn, wheat, rye and oats from the West, large quantities of which were purchased as far back as August. This delay, if continued, will have a tendency to create another "corner" in the grain market, as the present supply is rapidly being depleted, and advanced prices will be the only alternative if shipments from the West are further delayed. Red wheat is scarce at $1 68@1 70, and for prime white $1 90 is received. Rye continues firm at 83@85c. A fair trade is reported in oats; mixed sells at 40@41c, and white at 40@42c.

The general tone of the market indicates no material alteration in the figures previously reported, unless we say that a slight change in provisions has been made as follows: Sugar cured hams 18c; sugar cured shoulders 11c, plain shoulders 8½c; rib sides 12c; clear sides 13c; breakfast bacon 15c. Dried beef 20c. Mess pork $16 ℔ bbl. Ham sausage, 10c. Lard, in tierces 10c; refined 10c. Cincinnati lard oil 78@80c.

We will not give our usual extended quotations to-day. The following are the receipts of the leading articles since our last issue:

Cattle.

The run of cattle this week so far is considerably lighter than at the same time last week. The market opens up with advices from New York and Philadelphia unfavorable, but country buyers are here in fair numbers, and as the run is not very heavy they are purchasing at figures a little higher than last week. Prime cattle are in fair demand and are selling for better prices relatively than medium and common grades. At this writing it does not look as if the run of cattle would be very heavy.

PRICES.

Extra 1,400 to 1,500 lbs, $6 50 to $6 75; extra 1,300 lbs, $6 00 to $6 25; fair 1,200 lbs, $5 50 to $5 75; good 1,100 lbs, $4 75 to $5 25; fair 1,000 lbs, $3 50 to $4 25.

Hogs.

The run of hogs this week is inclined to be heavy. The offerings are fully up to the demand. The quality of the hogs not so good as has been arriving the last week. Trade is moderately active, but prices are not so good as they were. Prime hogs are off 10c per hundred since yesterday, and yesterday about ½c since last Saturday. Below will be found current rates:

Extra Philadelphia $5 25 to $5 40; prime Philadelphia, $5 15 to $5 20; prime Yorkers, $4 80 to $4 90.

Sheep.

The run of sheep this week up to the time of writing is heavy. The market opens with but few buyers here, and all are holding off. Scarcely any sheep are selling, in fact not enough on which to base quotations. Both buyers and sellers agree that prices will be lower, but as yet it is impossible to tell what the decline will be.

The market was deranged to-day, by reason of the stopping of all freight trains passing through Ohio and Pennsylvania on Sunday. This has delayed the usual receipts of cattle until a late hour to-day, too late for buyers to examine, and prime stock buyers seem disposed to hang off and demand a concession from last week's prices. The only sale recorded was 66 Iowa steers, averaging 1,251 lbs, at $6 2⅞. Sheep and Lambs—Receipts to-day 7,400 head, making the total supply for the week thus far 8,400, against 5,600 last week. Boats to Leave To-Day.

Brownsville and Geneva, U. S. M.	8 A. M. and 5 P. M.
Elizabeth	Elizabeth	Houghton, 3 P. M.

THE marks last evening indicated two feet six inches and falling. The weather was pleasant for the season. The only departure for the lower ports was the Petrolia, for Parkersburg, with a fair trip.

CAPT. POWER proposes to buy out the Wildwood on Wednesday, to re-enter the Cincinnati and Higginsport trade.

THE Memphis and White river trade is now getting quite interesting, and an opposition line of boats is talked of for that stream.

THE Monongahela dredge boat is doing good service at the foot of third street, clearing out the channel and making a good stage of water along the shore.

Although the number of new steamboats now building for lake and river navigation in the West and Southwest is not equal to that of former years, yet the aggregate tonnage exceeds any former year's work.

ST. LOUIS, October 1.—River falling. The St. Louis and New Orleans, and Merchants' Northern Packet Companies have effected an arrangement whereby but one boat at a time will be loaded hereafter, and the rates will be advanced.

WHAT IT COST TO CHARTER STEAMBOATS.—The following boats are chartered at the price named per month: F. P. Gracey, $1,800; Tyrone, $1,500; Lumsden, $1,200; Umpire, $1,200; Eddyville, $1,200; West Wind, $1,200; Burksville, $1,200; Ella Hughes, $750.

M. A. Bryson, of St. Louis, who for several years has been figuring around conventions, Congress and legislative bodies generally as a talking friend of steamboatmen, received, it is stated by the St. Louis Times, ten thousand dollars for his services. He was well paid for nothing.

THE United States packets on the slackwater leave daily at 8 A. M. and 5 P. M. These boats are sidewheelers and were built expressly for the trade, and are in charge of careful and attentive officers. For further information call on the Captain, A. S. Carlile, on the wharfboat.

THERE is a gorge of freight in every town between St. Louis and St. Paul, and it appears impossible for the limited number of boats now in this trade to diminish the amount to any considerable degree before navigation closes. This state of things affords the competing lines an excellent opportunity for advancing rates, which they are not slow to embrace.

THE Sunday St. Louis Times says: The steamer Northwestern came down yesterday minus a mate, and with one colored roustabout disabled. It seems that while the boat was lying at Quincy, Miles Burk, the mate, and Eli Davis, a colored roustabout, became involved in a quarrel, which resulted in Davis receiving a pistol shot in his right thigh. Burk fled and has not been seen since. The disabled man was sent to the city hospital yesterday.

THE Memphis Avalanche of Friday has the following: Captain Cowden is negotiating for the purchase of one of the pile-drivers used in building the Elevator, and when the terms are agreed upon, he will at once commence operations on the wreck of his new found fortune, the old steamer South Bend. The old veteran paid us a visit last night, and is quite sanguine in his expectations of getting out a large portion of the cargo.

ST. LOUIS.—Monday's Republican on the situation: No change in the weather. Business yesterday, being the close of the week, was very active, and Southern-bound steamers got away with all they could carry on the present stage of water, and left behind several tons for the next boats. The river at this point continues to decline slowly and a few inches less than six feet reported out to Cairo. Powers and Greenfield are the worst places. The Ohio, Missouri, Illinois and the Upper Mississippi have not changed any since our last report. Captain Joe LaBarge received a dispatch from Shreveport yesterday, saying there was no change in the river. Weather clear and pleasant. Indications are favorable for a brisk opening next week, and rates may probably be advanced.

CINCINNATI, October 14.—The indications are favorable for a rise of eight inches to one foot, judging from the dispatches above. A swell of a few inches will enable our light-draught packets to continue running in their respective trades.

Captain Andy Robinson, jr., and Mr. Chas. Register, clerk of the Ohio No. 4, have returned to the city, after a pleasant visit to Pittsburgh.

Mr. James Rees, jr., passed through the city yesterday en route from Pittsburgh to Texas, to look after the Trinity river packet Belle of Texas.

Mr Wm. Snider, engineer of the tug Little Giant, had his arm broken by getting it caught in the machinery while handling his engine the other day, at Memphis.

IN TOWN.—We had the extreme pleasure yesterday of meeting Capt. S. B. Page, one of the most gentlemanly and accomplished officers that ever traveled on Western water. Captain Page commanded the New England in the palmy days of the Pittsburgh and Cincinnati line. He retired from the river some twenty years since, and could not be induced to re-enter; his word was out and that was sufficient, although at various times he had been offered large inducements, but all to no purpose. When Captain Page said no, he meant what he said.

LOUISVILLE CANAL.—The old locks of the canal will be opened for steamboats to pass through by the 1st of next month. All the contractors will have their work completed by the middle of next week. The new locks will not be ready for the public before the 15th or 20th of November.

The Memphis Avalanche says: Of course the cargo of the South Bend was mostly insured in Cincinnati companies, and some of those companies do not now exist. The New Orleans Republican informs us that "the underwriters will pay Capt. Cowden seventy per cent. of all the goods recovered from the sunken steamboat South Bend." It is proper to say, however, that the United States Court held the steamer Goody Friends liable for half the losses on the South Bend.

It is not likely that much of value will be recovered from the wreck aside from the whisky and highwines. If there are 600 barrels of Bourbon whisky in the wreck, it would be worth to-day about $100,000. If the same amount of Cincinnati manufacture, the value would be less than half that amount. Twenty-four casks of highwines would now bring, in Memphis, $4,800. It is probable that the highwines were recovered by the diver, Rooney.

Political Partnership Dissolved.

An authentic report reaches us from Allenport, Washington county, to the effect that the Democrats and Liberals of that place, who, until Tuesday of last week, had been dwelling together in the same nest, like prairie dogs and rattlesnakes, have had a grand row, torn up their flag, smashed their furniture, and after abusing one another to their hearts' content, have resolved to go each his own way. The straight Democrats curse Greeley and declare they will vote for O'Conor. What is to become of the crooked Liberals (who are so few as to be scarcely worth counting) no one seems able to tell. In the language of Mr. Moore, this result is "too sad to contemplate."

CORNER STONE LAYING.

Grace Memorial Presbyterian Church—Interesting Exercises—Brief Description of the Building.

The corner stone of the Grace Memorial Presbyterian Church, located in Arthurs street, above Centre avenue was laid yesterday afternoon. There was a large audience present and the exercises were of an interesting character.

At three o'clock the exercises were opened by the singing of the hymn commencing "All Hail, the power of Jesus name," after which Dr. McKinney proceeded to lay the stone on the Northeast corner of the building, according to the ceremonies of the Presbyterian Church. The contents of the stone are as follows: A copy of the Holy Scriptures, hymn book, Confession of Faith, Presbyterian Banner, copies of the daily papers of this city, silver coin, list of the names of pupils attending the Miller street school house.

At the conclusion of the laying of the stone, prayer was offered by the Rev. E. E. Swift, after which another hymn was sung, commencing "Behold the sure foundation stone." Dr. Noble now followed in an able and lengthy address, which was listened to throughout with the closest attention. He was followed by the pastor of the church, the Rev. Charles Hedges, who made a few remarks. The audience was then dismissed with the benediction.

The building will be a handsome one story structure, and will cost about $15,000. The main building will have a front of forty-two feet eight inches in Arthur's street, and extend to a depth of sixty-two feet six inches. In the rear of the main building will be erected the lecture room, which will be thirty-eight by fifty-four feet, thus making the depth of the entire building from Arthurs street one hundred feet six inches. The building will be finished in modern style, and when completed will present a fine appearance. The front will be of press brick. It is expected that the structure will be completed by spring. The contractors are Messrs. A. & S. Wilson.

This church is the first Presbyterian colored organization established west of the mountains. It was organized nearly four years ago with seven members, and services have been held since that time in the Miller street school house. About three years ago the present pastor, the Rev. Charles Hedges, was called to the pastorate of the church, and has met with considerable success. The church now numbers seventy-seven communicants, and the regular attendance is much larger.

AN APPEAL.

To the Routed Democracy.

On Monday we gave the result of the meeting of the Democratic Committee on Saturday last, to take counsel in regard to the course which they ought to pursue in the Presidential contest. The conclusion reached was, that it would never do to ground arms, and give up the fight in despair. Accordingly W. D. Moore, Esq., Chairman of the Democratic Committee, has prepared an address to the Democrats, Liberals and German Reformers, which was given to the public yesterday. From it we make the following extracts, which form pleasant reading in the light of last week's election:

"The recent election has resulted in the present success of your political adversaries. Bribery, corruption and fraud have done their work. The will of the honest people of the State has been set at naught. Your pure and honorable candidates have been defeated. Our noble commonwealth have been delivered into the hands of the corruptionists for at least another year. But sad as is this result, you must not pause to contemplate it now. Another duty awaits you. The November election is at hand. Your candidates are eminently worthy of your support. The national principles they represent demand your utmost energy and zeal. The success of these has been measurably endangered by the result of the recent election. It behooves you to be up and doing, lest they suffer defeat by your supineness.

But this is not all that is now at stake. The purity of the ballot-box has been polluted by a systematic fraud. Negro voters have been imported from other States. "Repeating," by both home and foreign mercenaries, has been largely practiced. Bribery has been openly employed. Venal Democrats have been bought to deceive our voters. The majority of our misguided opponents, though themselves honest, have been made the instruments of gross corruption. These things you must in November expose, rebuke and punish.

We do not promise you success. It is unnecessary. Freemen, contending for great principles, do not count the cost. They never cease to fight till victory is achieved. Temporary defeat does not palsy their efforts. It only provokes to redoubled energy. Your strife is for the truth. The truth is mighty and must prevail."

Yea, verily, truth is mighty and has prevailed.

IN MEMORIAM.

The Death of James M. Cooper—Meeting at Trinity Church.

Yesterday afternoon, at a meeting of the ministers, wardens and vestry men of Trinity Church, held in the vestry-room, the following minute, relative to the death of James M. Cooper, was unanimously adopted:

The vestry of Trinity Church, Pittsburgh, called together to give expression to their sorrow at the death of their beloved brother and late associate in office, James Mercer Cooper, adopted the following minute, and ordered that it be entered upon their records, and published in the daily newspapers, and that a certified copy be sent to the family of the deceased:

While they mourn in common with this whole community the loss of one so highly respected and so useful in his life, they will miss him most in the church and congregation of which, for so many years, he has been a consistent member and faithful office-bearer, elected vestryman for twelve consecutive years, and during all that time retaining the esteem and confidence of his colleagues, he advanced the interests of this parish and of the church at large by his wise counsel and his rare fidelity and zeal.

Most devoutly do the members of the vestry desire to thank God for his good example as a disciple of Christ, and for his long continued service to His church. They sorrow not as those who have no hope, for there remains to them the comforting assurance that in these earthly courts of the Lord, in the songs and prayers and communions of the church he loved so well, his soul was fitted and prepared for the higher worship of the saints in glory. Of him they can say with holy confidence, "Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord."

In all the relations and affairs of life he was a man of rare and unflinching integrity, conscientiously discharging every duty and trust committed to him. Wise in counsel and firm as a friend, he leaves behind him as father, citizen, Christian, the best of all inheritances, an unspotted reputation and an honored name.

By this mysterious dispensation of Divine Providence his associates in office are most pointedly reminded of the shortness and uncertainty of human life. But a few weeks ago and he was as likely as any of them destined to length of days, and by his sudden removal hence they humbly recognize the fact that God is thus teaching them a lesson in heavenly wisdom to make them more and more diligent in working while it is day, and solemnly reminding them that the night cometh when no man can work.

The vestry desire to offer the bereaved family their most sincere and cordial sympathy, while they remind them of God's unfailing promise to be the father of the fatherless, and defend the cause of the widow.

They will attend the funeral of their late fellow-member in a body, and as a mark of respect wear the usual badge of mourning.

ALLEGHENY SCHOOLS.

Special Meeting of the Board of Controllers—The Question of Admitting Colored Children into the Public Schools—Routine Business.

An adjourned meeting of the Allegheny Board of Controllers was held last evening in the Common Council Chamber. The meeting was opened with prayer by the president, Rev. Joseph King. The roll was called and the minutes read and approved.

Mr. Smith, from the Third ward, reported the election of Miss Anna Ingrahm as a teacher in the new school house. Mr. Claney, from the Fifth ward, reported the election of Miss Adair to fill the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of Miss Matthews; and Mr. Trimble, from the Sixth ward, stated that Miss Lizzie Renwig had been elected to fill the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of Miss Hattie Smith, and Miss Lucinda Neelie as an additional teacher. The elections were confirmed.

The paper presented by Mr. Marthens at the last meeting was now called up and elicited a protracted discussion. The paper referred to was a series of resolutions authorizing the sale of the Sherman avenue colored school building, and allowing the colored children to enter the several ward schools.

Mr. Sprague moved that the whole matter be laid on the table.

Mr. Smith stated that if it was laid on the table, it could be taken up and considered at any time.

The motion to lay on the table was then withdrawn, when Mr. Hamilton moved that the whole question relative to the admission of the colored children into the ward schools be indefinitely postponed. If this motion prevailed, the question could not be called up during the existence of the present Board.

A number of members held that if the colored children were admitted into the ward schools it would create great dissatisfaction among the white residents of the several wards, and that the majority of the white scholars now attending the schools would be withdrawn. It was also held that the great majority of the colored people, nineteen out of twenty, were satisfied with the present school system, and did not desire to send their children to the ward schools, as it would be unpleasant both to their children and the white scholars. Others held that the Fourteenth amendment gave the colored people all the rights of citizenship, and that under this amendment they could claim the privilege of sending their children to the public schools.

Mr. Donaldson stated that a mandamus would be issued against the Fifth Ward Local Board, compelling them to admit colored children, if the Board of Control would indefinitely postpone the question. The mandamus would have been issued some weeks ago, but the attorney was requested to delay the matter until after the meeting of the Board of Control, with the hope that they would allow the colored children to attend the several ward schools.

After some further discussion the motion was put and resulted in a vote of 17 to 13. So the motion to indefinitely postpone was carried.

Mr. Parke read a communication from the music teachers of Allegheny, requesting that Mason's National Musical Chart be adopted. A motion was made and carried that the chart be adopted.

Mr. Donaldson moved that in the event of legal proceedings being instituted against any Local Board to compel such board to admit colored children, that the Board of Control sustain all the expenses thus incurred.

Mr. Hobson moved as an amendment that the fact of proceedings having been entered against any Local Board be first reported to the Board of Controllers. Withdrawn.

Mr. Smith said the colored school was among the best in the city, and he did not understand why a few desired to send their children to the ward schools. He wanted it to be understood that he was a friend of the colored people, and the only reason he opposed the admission of colored children into the ward schools was that it would be detrimental to their interests. He said he stood by the negro long before the organization of the Republican party, and had gained the title of "Nigger" Smith. He was in favor of the resolution, and believed if the highest legal talent was secured by the Local Board, that they would not be compelled to admit colored children.

Mr. Benny stated he had a resolution which he thought would cover the ground. Mr. Donaldson then agreed to withdraw his resolution, until Mr. Benney had read his. The resolution provided the appointment of a committee of three to bring the matter to Court, and have a decision. The resolution, however, was opposed, as the Board wished to act on the defensive.

The resolution of Mr. Donaldson was again taken up, when Mr. Smith said that the object of the Fourteenth amendment was to confer the most extended political rights upon the colored people. It does not interfere with the right of this State to regulate her school system, and it would so be decided by the Supreme Court. The Supreme Court would decide that this Board has strictly complied with the law of the State; and that the law does not conflict with the Constitution of the United States. The law of this State expressly states that where there are a sufficient number of colored pupils in a district to entitle them to one or more schools that there shall be separate schools organized for them. The political rights of the colored people are, the right to hold office, to select their rulers, to serve in the army or navy, or to do anything that any other citizen can do, but there is no interference in it with the State school laws.

The resolution of Mr. Donhldson was then adopted.

Mr. Miller moved that the night schools open on Monday next. Carried.

Mr. Benny read a communication from the Select and Common Councils of Allegheny, stating that a resolution had been adopted forbidding the use of the Library room for tax collecting purposes.

Mr. Hobson stated that the time for collecting taxes had expired, and that the books would soon be placed in the hands of the collectors of delinquent taxes. [Laughter.]

Mr. Smith stated that the law requiring the School Board to collect the school taxes had been repealed, and that hereafter the City Treasurer would receive the taxes. There would therefore be no further necessity to collect taxes in the Library room. [Renewed laughter.]

The communication was received and filed.

Mr. Benney read the pay-roll of the teachers for the month just closed, which amounted to $8,005 30. A member now retired, when it was found that no quorum was present.

Mr. Eaton stated that the next regular meeting of the Board would fall on the evening of the Presidential election. It was then decided to adjourn until the second Tuesday of November.

MINING AND ENGINEERING.

Meeting of the American Institute.

The American Institute of Mining Engineers will hold a session in this city, commencing this evening at eight o'clock, in the hall of the Western University. A number of the members arrived yesterday, and their headquarters will be at the Monongahela House. These meetings are for the advancement of the whole mining and metallurgical industry of the country, and at present the subjects of iron, steel and coal will occupy the larger share of the attention of the members. A number of interesting papers will be read, and important business will be transacted. The members of the trade who are interested in coal, iron and steel, are invited to be present. A number of the leading manufacturing establishments, and other subjects of interest about the city, will be visited by the members of the Institute. A meeting of the Council will be held at the Monongahela House, at eleven o'clock this morning.

IF the Board of Guardians could only confiscate all the new hats worn by Republicans as the proceeds of little bets, they could decently roof in the entire pauper population.

CHARLES THOMAS sues Louis Hays for assault and battery, and Fictell Greiner, for selling liquor to minors. Greiner keeps a saloon on Penn avenue. Hearings appointed in all cases.

HENRY W. WILLIAMS, actor and stage manager at Trimble's Varieties, yesterday entered suit for slander against Richard M. Carroll, who had made declarations injurious to his character and reputation as an actor. A capias was issued.

LOUIS MILLER instituted proceedings yesterday, before Alderman D. L. Smith, against John Smith, charging him with assault and battery. Miller alleges that Smith threw a stone which struck his infant child on the head and inflicted a very severe wound. Boys who persist in indulging in the dangerous sport of throwing stones should be punished severely.

A LAD about eight years of age, son of Officer Kender, while playing in Second avenue yesterday with a number of other children, was struck on his forehead by a stone thrown by a little girl, and severely injured. He was removed into the drug store of Wm. Hauch, where he received proper attention.

YESTERDAY Alderman Taylor had five cases before him. Three of them were instituted by Owen Cavanaugh, who enters suit against James Friel, a saloon-keeper on Eleventh street, for assault and battery, and for larceny by bailee of chisels and hammers to the value of ten dollars—and John Vautiey, Friel's bar-tender, for surety of the peace, threatening to kick his face off.

THIRTY unfortunates were before the acting Mayor yesterday. Catharine Williams, one of the regulars, was sent to the Workhouse for six months, for vagrancy. John Burke, for vagrancy, sixty days. Charles Wilson, disorderly conduct, thirty days. William Pardine, disorderly conduct, thirty days. William White, Albert Rody and John Irwin, disorderly conduct, thirty days each. Mary O'Neill, drunkenness and disorderly conduct, thirty days. Lawrence Digan and John Klines, thirty days each, disorderly conduct.

CHARLES ALLWUNG made information yesterday, before Alderman McMasters, against Charles Manning, the keeper of an oyster saloon on Tenth street, near Penn, charging him with assault and battery. He alleges that he went into Manning's saloon and ate an oyster stew, for which, he says, he paid. Manning, he says, demanded payment again, which he refused, whereupon Manning attacked and beat him severely, cutting his head and bruising him generally and badly. The accused was arrested and gave bail for Court.

YESTERDAY, Alderman O'Donnell issued two warrants upon complaint of James Arp, both upon a charge of larceny; the first directed against William Pierce and the other against Missouri Breman. The latter has been arrested, and is now in jail awaiting a hearing. Pierce is not yet arrested. Arp is a boarder at a house in which the girl was engaged as a domestic, and Pierce is Missouri's lover. She confesses to have committed the theft herself, but says her lover knew nothing of her guilt. She had access to Arp's room, and took some of his underclothing and some underwear of his deceased wife's, and a ring. The ring she gave to her lover, who deposited it with a jeweler—which circumstance caused the warrant in his case.

Notwithstanding the excitement incident to the State and national elections which has been particularly unfavorable to our educational institutions, the Business Man's College, Nos. 6 and 8 Sixth street, never was more prosperous or more largely attended than now. The most ornate and costly sets of eastern made furniture can not only be obtained at the establishment of Messrs. J. Chronic Ailments,

Particularly Scrofula, have their origin in an ill-cured or neglected disease. Do we not see every day persons staggering under the weight of those ill-treated diseases—suffering out by piecemeal the remains of a former malady? Why is it? It is because the treatment was not suitable or left off too soon. Thus the patient is patched up, while the dregs are allowed to remain to break out again in future generations. Many suffer the foul taint of scrofula to remain in the system for a lifetime. Ulcers and Sores that are eating away the very fountain of life are allowed to go on. Pimples, blotches, and tetters also disfigure the faces of thousands. There is no necessity for this lamentable condition, as a few bottles of the Samaritan's Root and Herb Juice will eradicate the foul taint, and remove pimples and blotches, thereby saving many unpleasant remarks. Ladies who desire a brilliant complexion should use the Samaritan's Root and Herb Juices.

Price, $1 25 per bottle.

PREMIUM AWARDED TO City Pavement Co. FOR PAVEMENT 1871

THE STOW
Foundation
Pavement,
Mechanics' Institute
Premium,
1871.

MECHANICS' INSTITUTE SAN FRANCISCO

Report of the Committee on Pavements, at the last Exhibition of the Mechanics' Institute, San Francisco, California, where the Stow Foundation Pavement was first introduced, and where it has been in used the past seven years.

"For general practical use and public benefit, we do not hesitate to pronounce the Stow Foundation Pavement, exhibited by the City Paving Company, together with the actual tests of its durability, as presented by the wear and tear in the streets of San Francisco, to be SUPERIOR TO ALL OTHERS, when taking into consideration the method of laying it, the time it has been laid, the form of its construction, and by an honest comparison with others which have been submitted to the same test. WE AWARD IT THE FIRST PREMIUM."

Signed, EDWIN A. SHERMAN, JOHN V. HUNTER, } Committee.

Stow Foundation Pavement!

The only Pavement that can be taken up and relaid without injury to the foundation. All Engineers, Builders, Gas and Water Companies and Plumbers, indorse this Pavement.

THE GREAT MERIT OF THE STOW PAVEMENT IS IN ITS SUPERIOR FOUNDATION,
Over all others, either of Wood or Stone, now in use.

It is a well known principle, in fact an AXIOM in Engineering, that where sand can be confined it is the best foundation that can be obtained. This principle—the confinement of sand—is perfectly and thoroughly secured in this pavement by the Wedges which are driven between and below the blocks into the sand, (see cut,) thus securely confining it and rendering lateral displacement, or compression by vertical pressure, totally impossible.

It is also incontrovertible, that where wood is kept uniformly wet, it will not decay. This pavement being laid directly on a sub-stratum of sand, and the surface made air and water-tight, the blocks receive and retain the moisture from beneath by capillary attraction and are uniformly wet, even in the dryest weather: thus decay or dry rot cannot take place.

It is, when finished, a perfectly sectional pavement, each block sustaining the weight required, independent of the other.

It is so constructed that the different pieces do not become loose by use; but the longer the pavement is used the more substantial it becomes.

The gravel does not become loose, as in other pavements but will remain firm as long as the pavement will last.

A portion can be taken up and replaced without injury to the pavement. In taking it up for laying water or gas pipes, or for constructing sewers, there is no necessity of removing any more than what is required for the pipe or sewer, which can be replaced in as firm and substantial manner as the original pavement, at one-fourth the expense of any other wood pavement.

In San Francisco, where the pavement has been in use more than six years, at least nineteen-twentieths of all pavements put down in that city for the past four years have been of the "Stow Foundation," the property owners selecting it in preference to any other pavement. Address,
